Newport, R. I., April 3.—Elsie French Vanderbilt has joined the ranks of war brides.

Divorced wife of the late Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, possessor of millions, Newport's most distinguished widow, whom rumor has been eager to remarry to every prominent man who appeared on the Newport or New York horizon, has chosen a husband from the ranks of comparatively little-known men. He is Lieutenant Paul Fitzsimmons, U. S. N., a comrade in arms of the bride's son, William Henry Vanderbilt, on the destroyer Evans. Lieutenant Fitzsimmons is a son of the late Medical Director Paul Fitzsimmons of Washington.

The ceremony took place today at 11 a. m. at Harbour View Villa, the Newport home of Mrs. Vanderbilt.

Major Amos Tuck French, brother of Mrs. Vanderbilt, gave the bride away. She had no attendants. Lieutenant John R. Palmer, U. S. N., was best man.

HEAVY LOSS IN EAST BOSTON SHIP FIRE

Fire swept the hold of the big Leyland line freighter Scythian at Pier 4, East Boston, today, endangering other craft and the pier structure, and destroying tons of sugar, flour and rope and a huge cargo of lumber, worth many thousands.

The damage by water was even greater than that caused by flame, for harbor fire engines Nos. 31 and 44 flooded hold No. 4 with water before the stubborn blaze was gotten under control.

A heavy fire guard is still on duty in the depths of the big transatlantic freighter, and other ships have been moved away for safety.

The cargo was destined for London, and the freighter was to have sailed tomorrow. Her sailing will be delayed indefinitely.

The destroyed cargo was taken on during the last week in Charlestown, and the Scythian was moved down to the East Boston pier only yesterday.

50 ACRES FOR AUTO PLANT

Option on Land in Vicinity of Andrew Square Secured; to Employ 15,000 Men

Henry Ford will locate a factory for the manufacture of the new $250 Ford automobile in South Boston, according to a statement made by John A. O'Connor, a South Boston business man, who claims to have authentic information from headquarters on this subject.

The new plant will occupy a fifty-acre site in the vicinity of Andrew square, South Boston, and a force of 15,000 men will be employed.

An option on part of the tract of land on which it is planned to erect the plant has been secured by Ford's attorney, and negotiations are under way for the remainder. Plans for the factory are already completed, and construction of the plant will start as soon as these negotiations are completed.

According to the plan already outlined, preference will be given to former service men when it comes to employing the 15,000 men who will constitute the working force. The new plant will be modelled after the great Ford plant in Detroit.

RIVAL BROOKS STATUES MAY FACE EACH OTHER

Bela Pratt statue of noted bishop that may be located in Copley square in spite of Supreme Court decision against the removal of St. Gaudens' statue on Trinity Church plot.

Will Boston have the spectacle of two statues of Phillips Brooks facing one another in Copley Square?

Edward R. Warren, speaking for the group of prominent Back Bay people who favor the substitution of the new Bela Pratt statue of the noted bishop for the old St. Gaudens statue now at Trinity Church in Copley square, is determined that the new statute shall be placed despite the court's refusal to displace the old statue.

The wardens and vestry of Trinity Church are prepared to abide by the decision of the court, which was that it would be unwarranted on their part to remove the now familiar statue of the noted divine. The court decision was the result of a friendly suit instituted by Mr. Warren, Charles W. Eliot, Henry L. Hig-

Paris, April 3.—The "Big Four"—President Wilson, Premier Lloyd George, Premier Clemenceau and Premier Orlando—have decided that Danzig be made a "free port." The disposition of the Vistula valley is to be left to a plebiscite. It is now estimated by the experts that the largest sum Germany can pay yearly, along with the interest, is $2,000,000,000.

AIRSHIPS TO GREET HEROES

Big Seaplanes Leave Chatham Tomorrow to Meet 26th Men on the Mount Vernon

Three naval seaplanes will leave the naval air station at Chatham early tomorrow morning to meet the Mount Vernon and escort her to the dock. The seaplanes will carry representatives of the press and official photographers.

Colonel Albert S. Williams, chief of staff of the Northeastern Department, today announced that when the Mt. Vernon docks tomorrow no committee, auxiliary or any other organization will be allowed on the dock. The debarkation will not take place until Saturday morning at 7 o'clock, and at that time all committees will permitted on the pier.

Only a few more hours and the advance guard of New England's glorious Yankee Division will be here.

From her position, 650 miles off Boston, the Mount Vernon wirelessed the Northeastern Department today that she would arrive at Commonwealth Pier tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Inasmuch as the ship is good for 450 miles a day, army and navy officials see no obstacle to her coming into port on time.

To share in the greetings extended the first units to arrive and his successor in the command of the Yankee Division, Major-General Edwards will return from Bangor, Me., tonight, arriving in time tomorrow to join in the greetings.

Unless present plans miscarry the newspaper representatives who will go down the bay to greet the big ship will start at 10 o'clock on the U. S. S. Halcyon from Battery wharf.

The boys aboard the Mt. Vernon will not be allowed to debark when the ship enters Boston Harbor, but will be held aboard until Saturday morning, according to an announcement from the Northeastern Department today.

The radiogram received today was as follows:

"Expect to arrive at Commonwealth Pier at 2:30 p. m., Friday, sixteenth meridian time. Require eighty stevedores working eight hours to discharge

Count Minotto Is Freed as Alien Prisoner

By International News Service.

Chicago, April 3.—Count James Minotto, son-in-law of Louis F. Swift, millionaire Chicago packer, whose arrest and, internment was one of the most noted enemy alien cases of the war, virtually has been set free, it was learned today, and is wintering in Southern California with his wife. Count and Countess Minotto, according to word received here, are registered at a Santa Barbara, Cal., hotel. Count Minotto was taken in New York from Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., in January, where he made a deposition for the French government in its prosecution of former Premier Caillaux. It later was reported that he had been released, but this was denied by the Attorney-General's office.

GIRL SLASHED BY JEALOUS SUITOR

Lawrence, April 3.—Eva Trahan, twenty-one years old, is dying at Lawrence General Hospital, and Victor Demars, middle-aged widower, whom she accuses of having first beaten her head with a hammer and then cut her throat during a fit of jealousy, has disappeared and is believed to have committed suicide.

The Merrimac River has been dragged for the body of Demars, who left with a revolver in his possession, and with no money and only the clothes he wore.

Miss Trahan was found today lying in the hallway outside her room at No. 190 Water street, where Demars also lodged. Her head was horribly beaten in, and she was so faint from loss of blood that she had been unable to make any outcry. When found she was semi-conscious.

The girl was restored to consciousness for a short time at the hospital, and accused the widower, saying he made the attack upon her after she had been visited by a soldier sweetheart, of whose existence Demars had until early today been ignorant.

Last night a young soldier called upon her and left, shortly after 10 o'clock. Demars saw the man, and after he had gone charged her with duplicity, and threatened to follow and kill his rival.

CYANIDE IN VICTIM'S STOMACH

Husband, Who Says He Gave Wife "Medicine," Held Without Bail on Murder Charge

Charged with having poisoned his wife by giving her cyanide of potassium in the guise of medicine, Frank B. Wohlgemuth, thirty-seven, a German living at No. 159 Shawmut avenue, was arrested today on a warrant charging murder. eH was held without bail pending an investigation.

The alleged murder was committed last Sunday in the man's home. The wife, Mary, a Portuguese woman of thirty-two, was reported by her husband to have suddenly fallen dead, and when Medical Examiner Timothy L. Leo had performed an autopsy he report, d "enough cyanide of potassium in the woman's stomach to slay a regiment."

Wohlgemuth hysterically protested his innocence today who narrated at the home of a sister at No. 11 Garland street, and swore that the dose he administered to his wife while she was preparing the Sunday dinner was medicine and not poison.

Inspector Cronin and Special Officer Kelleher and Chalmers, who made the arrest, says that Wohlgemuth, a navyyard employe, had easy access to quantities of the cyanide, and that he has frequently quarrelled with his wife.

The husband's story is that when his wife returned from mass Sunday she complained of being ill, and he went to the house of his sister next door to obtain medicine which he thought would relieve her.

At the same time, he admits, there was some of the medicine in his own medicine chest. When he returned he gave Mrs. Wohlgemuth the medicine in a wager glass, he says, and at first complained that it tasted "queer," and almost immediately fell dead.

Police investigation shows that Wohlgemuth did borrow the medicine he mentions from his sister, but the police say that they have an "open and shut case" against the German.

"NT. VERNON."

Transportation Agent McNamara reported that he would have nine trains of twelve cars each and one train of eight cars and five baggage cars ready at once. They would be on two tracks at the pier and would leave for Camp Devens at fifteen minute intervals. If possible, they will be moved at ten-minute intervals.

Immediately on debarking the members of the Yankee Division and casuals aboard, the Mount Vernon will make preparations for a dash back to France. Her commander viewed the Navy Department asking for the following supplies among other: 6,500 tons of coal, 2,000 gallons engine oil, 156 gallons cylinder oil, 100 gallons kerosene and fifty gallons of gasolene.

When General Edwards leaves Bangor for Boston he will have one or two of the army officers who are with him on the trip to fill his engagements at Lewiston and Portland. These officers, including Captain Croker, official photographer of the Yankee Division, are in position to relate the deeds of daring on the part of New England soldiers to anxious relatives and friends.

DESTROYERS TO MEET BOYS.

Four torpedo boat destroyers will leave the Boston Navy Yard tomorrow morning at 6 o'clock, to go out to meet the Mt. Vernon. They will be in command of Commander E. G. S. Parker, U. S. N., and should meet the transport off Cape Cod.

Other vessels which will convey numerous reception committees from places designated are the Aztus, Monitor, Castine, Halcyon, the press boat, Mayflower, Samoset, Don Juan, Austin, Machigonne, Admiral and the Adelaide, which will bear the customs officers. In addition to these there will be ten submarine chasers.

The naval committee plans to have the vessels meet their committees at wharves to be designated, and then to have a general mobilization point off Boston Light, for all.

WARNS AGAINST PARTITION OF GERMANY

Noske, "Strong Man of Nation," Predicts Trouble From Plans of Allies

By ALFRED G. ANDERSEN.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

(Copyright, 1919, by the International News Service.)

Berlin, April 3, via London, April 3. —"If Danzig is given to Poland; if East Prussia is divided and if France takes the Saare Valley, there is going to be the most serious unrest in Germany."

This prediction was made today by Gustave Noske, minister of war, who is sometimes described as "the strong man of Germany."

The exclusive interview was given behind carefully locked doors in the navy building.

Noske indicated that he shared Lodendorff's view that "Germany will not be crippled to seek revenge."

Noske was unfriendly towards the United States, for in the course of his talk he said:

"America, entered the war and helped England and France to defeat Germany and then did not fulfill the promise to send food and raw materials into this country, causing uprising. To combat this unrest, an army is necessary. We only want an army of sufficient strength to maintain internal order."

The war minister opened his interview by declaring that the impression prevalent in America and elsewhere that militarism still exists in Germany is false. He blamed America for the fact that Germany is now raising a volunteer army.

NINE-INCH LOBSTER IS NOW LEGAL IN MAINE

Augusta, Me., April 3.—Hereafter lobsters in Maine to be legal must be of the same length as those in Massachusetts. Heretofore a Maine lobster must have measured ten and a half inches to be within the law. The new act establishes nine inches as the legal length, the same as in Massachusetts.

Gen. Hale, New Leader of 26th, Classmate of Gen. Edwards

Boston will wear a very different aspect for Major-General Harry C. Hale when he debarks tomorrow from the Mt. Vernon as head of the 26th Division from that which it wore when he underwent an operation for appendicitis here before the war. Then he was a Colonel, ill and suffering; now he is commander of "New England's Own," returning to its home shores.

Although General Hales is not a Bostonian by birth, he has a close personal friend here. This is the well known surgeon, Dr. Nathaniel W. Emerson of Brookline, who performed the operation referred to. Since that time the officer has been to the Mexican border, to China, back home again, to Camp Taylor, and once more overseas.

In an interview with the Boston American, Dr. Emerson told something of the history of the man who took the place of Major-General Clarence R. Edwards as the leader of the Yankee Division in France after General Bamford was removed.

IS WEST POINTER.

General Hale was born in Galesburg, Ind., and after attending the public schools there received an appointment to West Point, where he was a classmate of General Edwards.

After graduation he was attached to the staff of General Merritt at Governors Island, New York Harbor, and went to the Philippine Islands with him when General Merritt was made military Governor of the Islands. From Manila he accompanied General Merritt to Paris to attend the peace conference after the Spanish-American War and later made a tour of the world with General Merritt.

During this tour General Hale met Dr. Emerson in London, and the two became friends.

Just before General Hale, then a colonel, was sent to the Mexican border in charge of the 26th Infantry he developed an attack of appendicitis and came to Boston to submit to an operation at the hands of Dr. Emerson.

SERVED IN CHINA.

After his recovery he went to the border and was later ordered to China to take charge of troops there.

He was in China when the present war broke out and was ordered home, receiving his promotion while en route, so that on his arrival here he became a major-general and was sent to Camp Zachary Taylor to organize the Lincoln Division, which he took overseas.

General Hale and Dr. Emerson at one time took a three-months trip through Africa.

Since he took charge of the 26th Division, General Hale has written several letters to Boston friends in which he speaks in glowing terms of the valor of the 26th Division in France.

COLORED MEN IN FIRST PARADE OF HEROES

Hundreds of Boston's colored heroes, many of them wearing wound stripes and foreign decorations for gallantry, took part today in the first parade of overseas troops in this city since the war began.

Thousands thronged the streets in the Back Bay and downtown sections, and the returning soldiers were given a welcome as genuine as it was noisy.

The troops belonged to old Company L of the former 6th Massachusetts Infantry, now the famous "Buffalo" division, trained in New York and New Jersey, and to the 92d and 93d divisions and the 325th Signal Battalion. There was a scattering representation from other colored units, including a number of young men from the S. A. T. C.

Company L, one of the most popular of the organizations of former Massachusetts National Guard, was detached from the 6th Regiment when the guard was being reorganized and was assigned to the famous "Red Hand" Division of the French army after arrival overseas.

The parade started from the Irvington Street Armory, and was preceded by a luncheon served in the armory to men in uniform. The line of march was from Irvington Street Armory to Huntington avenue to Boylston street to Tremont, to West, to Washington, to Summer, to Devonshire, to Milk, to Postoffice square, to Broad, to State, to Washington, to School and Beacon streets, and so back to the point of starting.

The procession was reviewed at the State House and City Hall by Governor Coolidge, Mayor Peters and others prominent in the affairs of the State and city.

The colored people of Boston made the day peculiarly their own, and were out in force to cheer the boys of their race.

Some of the men in line have already been discharged, all the others are soon to be returned to civil life. Semi-official organizations acted as escort for the returned troops, and the procession was well supplied with music.

Beckman Asks About Rhode Island Boys on the Mount Vernon

Providence, April 3.—The fact that some Rhode Island boys are on the transport Mount Vernon, which docks tomorrow at Boston at 2:30, has caused Governor Beckman's office at the State House here to be besieged with visitors and telephone calls, urging him to find out what Rhode Island divisions are on the transport. As the result of these requests the Governor has caused a wireless to be sent from Newport asking for the numbers of the Rhode Island units. His office is thronged with anxious relatives awaiting the reply.

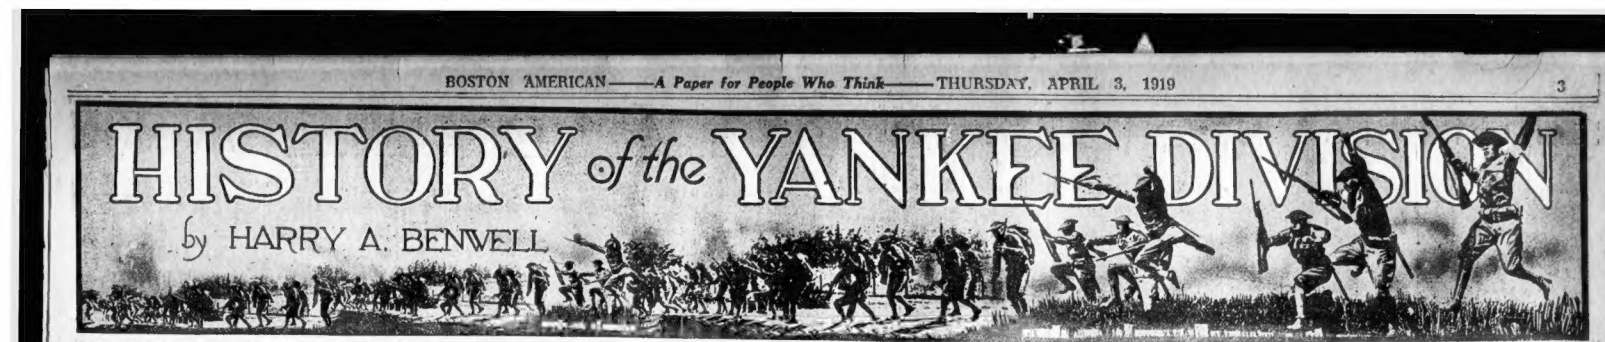
HISTORY of the YANKEE DIVISION

by HARRY A. BENWELL



EDWARDS INSISTS WHOLE DIVISION GO INTO FRONT LINE TRENCHES

This is the fifth instalment of the "History of the Yankee Division," which began in the Sunday Advertiser-American of March 30. Previous instalments contained a tribute to the division by Major-General Edwards, its organizer and former commander, and a general introduction telling what was accomplished by the New Englanders. The story of the organization of the division then began and was carried along through the period of transportation, when boats destined for the 42d Division were secured for the 26th, thereby enabling it to be the first full division overseas. Then came the tale of the hardships endured in the training area at Neufchateau, and how adequate motor transport was secured through the initiative of officers of the division and French officers.

CHAPTER IV.

Enjoy Old-Fashioned Christmas.

The men had celebrated Christmas in the training area, an old-fashioned "white" Christmas, and, for many, the first one away from home. A week before hundreds of freight cars had arrived, laden with packages from home, and these were distributed to all by Christmas eve. Men who had been unfortunate in receiving no gifts, shared those sent to their comrades, so that everyone was made as happy as possible considering the distance from home and loved ones, and the realization that all were shortly to go into action.

Christmas Day only the necessary military duties were performed, and the men were given the time to themselves. The majority took occasion on that day to attend services in some of the tiny chapels in the neighborhood and to pray for the folks at home.

This attitude of devotion to Christian ideals on the part of the men of the Yankee Division was noticeable throughout their stay in France. It led to many commendations. Prior to leaving home the majority had been carefree, typical boys, who though they realized the necessity of religion in daily life, more often than not gave little time to it.

When they arrived in France, however, and began to come into contact with war's grim realities, they became more sincere.

Salvation Army Woman's Tribute

"God bless them," said Brigadier Mary Sheppard of the Salvation Army, who spent months with the division, "they were the best boys in the world. No words that I can use would be too good for them."

The days dragged on into January with General Edwards going about daily and establishing personal contact with his men. Practically everyone, including the general, suffered from colds and bronchitis, but he continued his work of building up morale, which the lack of training time prevented.

"I am an awfully ingrained Yankee," remarked General Edwards, "and I know one American could lick four or five of those Dutchmen. If there is one thing in which we excel it is initiative.

"Now my job was to aid, pat on the back and capitalize those qualities which are not so prominent in other nations, dignify the non-commissioned officer, tell the private he has a baton in his hand, pat the young commissioned officer on the back and say: 'Go out and get killed if you cannot lick the Dutchman.'

"I had to go along with the whole business and supply the lack of training and the lack of opportunity by the capitalization of the traditions of our blood and individuality.

"So I took these battalions and said: 'Bring them up around me.' I had a bad cold which afterward resulted in pneumonia. We all had it. I would say to the men: 'I am going to tell you what I have seen up in the British front, and I am going to tell you all that is going to take the place of training, and I want to say to each one of you, play the game with your whole heart, make good every effort. Just think of your home and mother every day of your life.'

"'How about the salute? I'd ask. That is the thing that the American soldier has less sympathy with than anything else. If there is any way he can beat that salute he is going to do it. I have passed a big crowd and I know what they said: "Hell, here comes the old man," and spend time trying to tie a shoe or looking the other way, or jumping into a billet.

Salute Proves Self-Respect

"'You show me a crackerjack saluting command and I will show you a disciplined command. The British army salutes and the Russian army doesn't. Remember that a salute is nothing on earth in this game but the manifestation of a man's self-respect. Salute a man that you loath, salute an empty automobile if you think there is some martinet inside of it, and always put yourself right with the command.

"'I believe that a salute is nothing in the world but an inheritance from savages, who said: "I have no arms. I am a friend, come on."

"'When you salute, give me the salute with your eyes. Keep your eyes off the mud of France. When a man walks along like that, his stomach will not function. He has a bad tongue. His feet are wet. Keep your eyes up in the clouds and smile. When you salute, look at the man you are saluting; give him the tribute of your eyes and smile. Don't anyone of you dare to salute me unless he smiles. Let me know the officer that does not smile back and salute in acknowledgment of the tribute that you gave him.'

Compliments Military Police

"For the military police I had selected 325 men. Their colonel and their crackerjack Major Dolan were told to go and pick them, to be the rock of the Twenty-sixth Division. 'Pick them for character,' I said, 'pick them for size, pick them for bowels, and I will show you the greatest military police in the world.'

"They certainly picked them. I do not believe I ever had to court-martial one of those men. They had me afraid.

"One of them jumped on my automobile one day when that fine soldier, Captain Simpkins, was with me. The policeman said to my sergeant-chauffeur: 'The orders are eight miles an hour up this narrow street. You are going twelve; stop it.' The sergeant looked at me. I said: 'Obey him.' I got to my house and told Captain Simpkins to go back and compliment that lad.

"Later I saw an officer in a magnificent trench coat pass one of those big policemen. The policeman saluted, but the officer gave him what Major Scorer used to call an 'S. O. S.' salute. I called the captain back, and told him that he was not going the right way to pay a tribute to his flag. I said: 'There is a man,' pointing to the policeman, 'who is playing the game, but you are not playing it. Salute him with the same care you salute me. I salute a military policeman with as much care as I would salute General Pershing.'

"Two days later Captain Simpkins and I were coming back. The same big policeman stood there. There was a number of soldiers standing around. I called the men around me and said: 'You see that street. Get down there double time, turn around, come back and see if you can salute that soldier as he should be saluted. I will watch it.' They did as they were told. I said: 'Sentinel, I don't think that is very good, do you?' 'I don't think it is, general,' said he. Then I told the men to go right back and try it over again, or they would trade places with the policeman. The next time the policeman admitted that the salutes were correct.

"That is merely an example of how I went after them every day. However, when they did anything right I would tell them so, and that was the soul of the Twenty-sixth Division."

Artillery in Training

All through November the artillery, trench mortar battery and ammunition train had been getting into shape at Coetquidon, the artillery training camp. Then on December 18th 500 officers and men were sent to the division area at Neufchateau to prepare billets for the artillery brigade at Rimacourt. They were never occupied, however.

The ammunition train, in command of Lieutenant-Colonel William J. Keville, was in particularly bad condition, owing to lack of equipment.

Arriving in France with practically no mobile equipment, it was some time before the men of the train got even a single truck on which the drivers could be instructed. A detail of twenty trucks was at length secured from St. Nazaire and these were at once put into service hauling supplies to Coetquidon. The drivers were alternated, so that the inexperienced were enabled to get practice. The men also got some experince handling ammunition, carrying it up each day from Rennes for artillery practice.

Like all other parts of the division, although it was one of the most vitally important, the train suffered from lack of necessary supplies. The men were also forced to take part in road building and the construction of artillery positions.

There was no motor equipment, no trucks to speak of, and no machine shop in which to repair what trucks they had. Another train turned over twenty-two trucks to the 101st of which only three were mobile. However, Yankee ingenuity can acomplish most anything, and in a few days the men had fourteen of the trucks going.

The expected equipment never came except in part, and for many months the ammunition train got along with an outfit that was badly handicapped. On January 5th a divisional ordnance repair shop, mounted on a truck was attached to the ammunition train, but immediately went to work repairing artillery material.

The artillery also lacked equipment, but to no such extent, being helped out considerably by the French and British.

The artillery had left its American three-inch guns at home, and on arriving in France started in to learn to use the French "75s" and the heavier 155s, corresponding to our six-inch gun.

Loaded French Guns On Recoil

The 75 was one of the most efficient weapons of the war, about the same calibre as a three-inch, but with improved recoil mechanism and periscopic sight. With this gun the French had done tremendous execution on the enemy, and had attained an accuracy which it was impossible to better. However, the Yankees took the gun, and perceiving the advantages of the recoil mechanism, became so proficient in loading that the German afterward frequently declared they were using a three-inch machine gun. The Yankee trick of loading on the recoil was difficult and dangerous, but was much more rapid than the regulation fashion.

The "Y. D." artillery also became extremely accurate, and learned to lay barrages with such deadly precision that the "doughboys" later on took to "leaning on" them. This expression means that the infantry kept so close to their own barrage that unless it were as accurate as possible in the nature of things, many of our own men would have been killed.

Under the expert instruction of the French, who are declared to be the best artillerymen in the world, the Yankees became so proficient that they were frequently called on to go into a sector in advance of the infantry, and remain there to help out other outfits when their own division had pulled out.

Colors Presented to 101st

On the last Sunday in January the members of the division, together with French troops and peasants, were treated to an impressive spectacle. The 101st Infantry was lined up, the men all wearing new trench caps which had been secured for them by Colonel Logan, and General Edwards presented a stand of colors. The colors were sent by Governor Samuel W. McCall of Massachusetts in behalf of the people of the State, and were accepted for the regiment by Colonel Logan.

It became necessary to reorganize divisional headquarters along new general staff lines developed by General Headquarters of the A. E. F.

This plan called for a chief of staff, to which position Colonel Shelton was appointed, assistant chief of staff G-1 for supply, administration and co-ordination, assistant chief of staff G-2 for intelligence, and assistant chief of staff G-3 for operation. Major Pendleton had done so well as quartermaster that General Edwards appointed him G-1 of the division, in which position he was in charge of all matters of transportation, supply of subsistence, equipment, ammunition, construction, evacuation of sick and wounded, replacements, material and personnel, animals, etc. The other two appointees were Major Hyatt, aide to the general, as G-2, and Major Mack as G-3.

In the meantime it had been decided that Major Howard, commanding the 101st Machine Gun Battalion, should be made acting divisional machine gun officer, and in December he had been sent to a British machine gun school at Camiers. Then he joined the Canadians in front of Lens, observing the machine gun work, and did not return to the division until it had gone into an active sector.

Edwards Goes to Headquarters

Soon after the organization along the new lines, General Edwards was ordered to go to General Headquarters at Chinan. Taking with him his chief of staff and Major Pendleton, he presented himself and was informed that General Petain and the French government had persuaded General Pershing to allow some of the Twenty-sixth troops go up to the Chemin des Dames and learn the German tactics. The plan was to send two battalions.

General Castelnau, the "grand old man" in command of that sector, said: "We are anxious to tell you everything we know. We have lost thousands of lives that might have been saved, but I am an old man and I have got to admit that there is only one instructor in this war, and that is the Boche."

Edwards was asked if he would allow these two battalions to go up. Straightening himself to his full height, he announced: "I want every man of the Twenty-sixth Division and I will take them all up to the Chemin des Dames."

He was told that all of his troops had not had sufficient training, but replied: "Let them go up."

He was taken at his word, and the artillery brigade, ammunition train, trench mortar battery and engineer regiment were directed to proceed to the new area and join the rest of the division. General Traub, who had commanded the division in the absence of General Edwards, with Major Pendleton and Captain Malick of the French Mission, went up to Soissons as the advance party of the division to make all arrangements.

The division was assigned to the Eleventh French Corps under General de Mau d'Huy, part of General Duchesne's army. The movement was very successfully executed and was witnessed by a number of American officers from General Headquarters.

The division entered the line on February 5th and remained in the sector about one and a half months. The artillery went in first, and then the infantry, in companies and battalions, entered the sector and relieved the front line troops.

For the first time the division was concentrated with every unit. The organization was split up and parts of it were assigned to the Fourth French Division as a matter of training.

It was necessary to have eleven distributing points by motor beyond the end of the railroad, where all the supplies arrived. In other words, General Edwards had administrative control of the nearly 30,000 men, but did not have the tactical control.

London Paper Urges Tax on Unmarried Men Over 26

London, April 3.—"Why not tax all unmarried men over twenty-six years of age and women over thirty years?" asks the London Daily Mail today in an editorial.

The paper argues that their money is spent largely for luxuries and that they are better able to pay a heavier tax than married persons are.

CHICAGO 'WETS' TO FIGHT SALOON CLOSING JULY 1

Chicago, April 3.—Chicago "wet" leaders, encouraged by the wet victory in the local prohibition election Tuesday, are planning an "association opposed to national prohibition" from which will issue a protest against enforcement of the war time prohibition measure July 1. The local association will be similar to one in the East represented by Elihu Root.

REVISE PAY INCREASES VOTED IN WATERTOWN

At a meeting of the Board of Selectmen of Watertown, the question of salaries was revived, as voted at the last town meeting. Policemen and firemen to receive $1,500 a year in place of the $1,600 that was decided on at that meeting. Wesley E. Monk ruled that the appropriation made at that time was in a lump sum and that the actual amount to be given was up to the Board of Selectmen. The sum of $1,000 was also voted to be distributed equally between the clerk, treasurer, auditor and tax collector. The chiefs of the police and fire departments will receive $2,100 as voted at the last meeting.

ART TREASURES IN PERIL AT BACK BAY BLAZE

Art treasures said to be worth thousands of dollars were endangered today when a defective flue at No. 46 Commonwealth avenue, residence of Mrs. A. L. Hopkins, caused a chimney fire. Smoke was discovered by a maid, pouring into rooms in which are hung valuable paintings. A still alarm was sounded and the fire was put out with a damage of $50.

BAYER

WHEN BUYING ASPIRIN ALWAYS SAY "BAYER"

Ask for "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" in a Bayer package—marked with "Bayer Cross."

Don't buy Aspirin tablets in a pill box. Insist on getting the Bayer package with the safety "Bayer Cross" on both package and on tablets. No other way!

You must say "Bayer." Never ask for merely Aspirin tablets. The name "Bayer" means you are getting the genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin," proven safe by millions of people.

Beware of counterfeits! Only recently a Brooklyn manufacturer was sent to the penitentiary for flooding the country with talcum powder tablets, which he claimed to be Aspirin.

In the Bayer package are proper directions and the dose for Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Colds, Grippe, Influenza-Colds, Neuritis and pain generally.

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin," American made and owned, are sold in vest pocket boxes of 12 tablets, which cost only a few cents; also in bottles of 24 and bottles of 100—also capsules. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

HEARD PLEA FOR LIFE BY MRS. WILKINS

Witness Testifies to Woman's Cry of "Don't Hurt Me" as She Died

New York, April 3.—Two new disclosures have been made in the case of Dr. Walter Keene Wilkins, awaiting trial on a charge of slaying his wife at Long Beach.

Before the new developments were announced, District Attorney Charles R. Weeks, of Nassau County, and Dr. Otto E. Schultze, medical examiner for the district attorney's office of New York County, held a four-hour conference at the Long Beach home of the Wilkins, where the woman was killed.

They conferred during that time with Lieutenant James Mangano, an army surgeon stationed at Long Beach; Allen S. Myers, chief operative of the William J. Burns National Detective Agency, and Carman Plant, Nassau County detective.

The two revelations were:

PLEADED WITH SLAYER.

A witness has been found who heard Mrs. Wilkins speak before she died. She is said to have pleaded, crying, with her assailant, "Don't hurt me."

Mrs. Wilkins' hair was entirely unpinned when she was struck down, and the missing pins were located, beside her gloves, inside the house. They were found only a few feet from the spot where her undamaged hat was discovered.

Dr. Wilkins has contended since the hour of the murder that his wife was struck down and beaten to death in the yard before she reached the door of their home, on her way from Manhattan. He said burglars ran out of the house and killed her.

District Attorney Weeks declined to make any comment, but it became known that he would resist all efforts of Dr. Wilkins' counsel to obtain physical possession of the Beach cottage.

MANGANO TELLS STORY.

Lieutenant Mangano was the first person to reach the side of Mrs. Wilkins after her husband gave the alarm. He is said to have supplied information of the greatest importance to the State. It was declared that he had caught the dying words of Mrs. Wilkins, as she lay bleeding in the roadway of her estate.

The entire story of Lieutenant Mangano will probably not be told before the trial.

The belief is growing among certain officials that Mrs. Wilkins was trying for help from her own room, when she was beaten to the earth just outside the door of the cottage. Evidence has been found which indicates the source of her first injuries, and, by blood smears it is believed her flight for her life can be traced.

ROBERT J. WALSH OF SHOE STYLE FAME DEAD

Robert J. Walsh, manager of the Boston Shoe Style Show, and one of the most prominent men engaged in the shoe trade in New England, died today at his home in Brookline at the age of forty-one. He had been sick since the first week of January, when he finished conducting a show here Stears at the naval prison at Port Royal, S. C., for the theft of Liberty Bonds, not Ensign Edward E. Peterson, who is still in service at Portsmouth and who bears an excellent reputation and has a splendid record as an officer.

The information on which the American based its story was received from an official source, and the American was not the only newspaper deceived into publishing it. It is presumed that the error arose out of the similarity of the final names and of the official positions.

Whatever the reason for it, the American deeply regrets the injustice to a conscientious naval official and takes this opportunity to set him right before the public and his many friends.

heart trouble. Mr. Walsh had a nationwide reputation as a shoe style authority, being the originator of shoe style shows. He promoted shows in St. Louis, Rochester, Philadelphia, Toledo, Toronto, and other leading shoe centres.

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED IN DROWNING OF GIRL

Ludlow, April 3.—Foul play is suspected in the death of Miss Margaret MacGregor, sixteen, whose body was found floating in the Chicopee River. According to the girl's father, Alexander MacGregor, of No. 59 Quebec road, Indian Orchard, there could be no reason for suicide, as the girl showed no signs of despondency.

ginson, the Rev. George A. Gordon and others.

And the controversy is on.

"I don't know just where the new statue will be placed," declared Mr. Warren. "A meeting of our committee will be called to select a proper location, but we have no plans in definite shape for their consideration. I am positive, however, that the new statue will be located somewhere in the city.

"Will Copley square be the site of the new statue?" he was asked.

"I don't know a blessed thing about the location" he replied. "All I do know is that we are determined upon the stand we have taken in the matter."

So that if a site for the statue should be selected in or near Copley square, Boston would have the curious situation of two statues of the same man practically looking at each other.

Mr. Warren would not say that this odd phase of the situation would not develop.

COMMISSION MAY ACT.

The possibility that the Art Commission might take a hand in the controversy adds additional interest to the affair. The new statue is by Bela Pratt. It cost $35,000, is of heroic size and cast in bronze. Artists are highly appreciative of the statue, regarding it, as one that strikingly brings out the character of the bishop.

Mr. Warren and the others who desire the removal of the St. Gaudens statue are the original contributors and surviving members of the committee appointed in 1892 to receive the contributions for a proposed statue of the late bishop. The objection of Trinity Church to the substitution was on the ground that the rights of Mrs. St. Gaudens would be infringed by the removal of her husband's work.

MALDEN HOSEMAN BURNED AT FIRE

Hoseman Joseph F. Carey, connected with Hose 1 of Malden, was painfully burned today by an explosion of hot air while fighting a $500 blaze in the residence of R. D. Randall at No. 18 Cottage street, Malden. The blaze, which started in a dining-room closet, awakened the Randall family by smoke and drove Mrs. Randall and children to the street in scanty attire.

Ensign D. E., Not E. E. Peterson, Jailed for Bond Theft

The Boston American, with a number of other newspapers, did a great injustice to Ensign Edward E. Peterson, on duty at the Naval Prison at Portsmouth Navy Yard, in a published story of March 24, which it gladly takes this opportunity to correct.

It was Ensign Daniel E. Peterson who was sentenced to two years at the naval prison at Port Royal, S. C., for the theft of Liberty Bonds, not Ensign Edward E. Peterson, who is still in service at Portsmouth and who bears an excellent reputation and has a splendid record as an officer.

The information on which the American based its story was received from an official source, and the American was not the only newspaper deceived into publishing it. It is presumed that the error arose out of the similarity of the final names and of the official positions.

Whatever the reason for it, the American deeply regrets the injustice to a conscientious naval official and takes this opportunity to set him right before the public and his many friends.

50,000 NEW U. S. TROOPS GOING TO FRANCE

By International News Service.

Washington, April 3.—General Pershing was today informed by cable of the War Department's decision to enlist 50,000 volunteers for overseas service and was informed that the men would be sent to him in detachments of 1,000 each for assignment to the Army of Occupation.

With the arrival of each detachment he was instructed to return an equal number of men who had enlisted or who had been drafted for the period of the war, selecting the most meritorious cases.

The 50,000 men, the general was told, will be divided as follows: Twenty-five thousand infantry, 15,000 field artillery, 5,000 engineers, 2,000 medical department, 2,000 cavalry.

MRS. FRENCH VANDERBILT A BRIDE

Governor and Mrs. R. Livingston Beeckman of Rhode Island, Colonel and Mrs. Walter H. Shepfield, Mrs. Paul Fitzsimmons, mother of the groom, of Washington; Mrs. Amos Tuck French, wife of the bride's brother, Dr. and Mrs. Roderick Perry of Newport, Miss Helen North of Hennessy street, Roxbury, and Bishop Perry of Rhode Island.

Rev. Stanley C. Hughes, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, officiated.

The announcement of the marriage today most effectually settled the question as to just whom Elsie French Vanderbilt would marry, a question that had agitated both Newport and New York society since her divorce from her first husband.

The bride has been regarded generally as a woman cheated by divorces, of real widowhood, as her former husband went down with the Lusitania. At that time he was the husband of the former Margaret Emerson, famous Baltimore beauty, now the wife of Ray Ellis, treasurer of the Mint. At the time of her marriage to Vanderbilt the Baltimore beauty was the divorced wife of Dr. Hollis McKim.

WOOLSEY MENTIONED.

Society gossip had made many futile prophecies as to Elsie French Vanderbilt's remarriage. George Muirson Woolsey, the financier, was one of the men mentioned. It was also confidently predicted more than once that the noted widow would wed Richard de B. Boardman of Boston, well-known clubman and yachtsman. Announcement of their engagement had been hourly expected for weeks.

Since the beginning of the war, Mrs. Vanderbilt has forsaken society for war work, and has engaged practically all her energies in the service of the Red Cross. She has been one of the leaders of that organization in the Newport colony, and has contributed lavishly of her time and money.

The romance leading to her marriage today is believed to have grown out of her absorbing interest in the war. News of the engagement caused profound surprise.

BODY OF UNKNOWN MAN FOUND AT REVERE BEACH

The body of an unidentified man was found floating in the seaweed opposite Condrit's Dance Hall, Revere Beach, today, by Metropolitan Park Policeman David Hartigan. The body had evidently been in the water but a few hours, and as there were no marks of violence the police suspect suicide by drowning. Medical Examiner George R. Magrath will make an investigation. The man was about fifty-five years old, with a gray moustache, and wore a black sack suit, no overcoat and black shoes and stockings.

Who's Who in the 26th Division

MAJOR-GENERAL TRAUB.

President of the republic. In September, 1917, he was appointed commander of the 51st Infantry Brigade.

Major-General Peter E. Traub, who recently returned from France at the head of the 26th Division, composed chiefly of Kansas men, was a brigadier-general in the 26th Division when it went abroad. He then commanded the 52d Infantry Brigade. General Traub was born in New York fifty-four years ago and has been in the United States regular army many years. He was graduated from West Point in 1886 and was attached at various times to the 1st, 5th, 13th 12th and 7th Cavalry. He became major of the 7th Cavalry March 5, 1911, and on October 4, 1914, was appointed assistant chief of the Philippine Constabulary with rank of colonel.

He served in the campaign against the Sioux Indians in South Dakota in 1890-91 and for six years, beginning in 1892, was an instructor of languages at West Point. For gallantry in action in the Battle of San Juan, July 1-3, 1898, and the siege of Santiago he was recommended for captaincy. On April 27, 1902, he secured a signed agreement of General Guavara to surrender.

From 1902 to 1904 he was an instructor of languages at West Point, and from 1904 to 1907 he was head of the department of languages of the Army Signal School, Army Staff College. He was a member of the mission to the Isthmus of Panama in 1908 to supervise the election of

Grandma Never Let Her Hair Get Gray

She Kept Her Locks Dark and Glossy, with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. A little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, and look years younger.—Advertisement.

SUMMONSES IN TAGUE CASE CHECKED UP

Dull Routine in Election Hearing Disappoints Large Crowd at Federal Building

The Tague-Fitzgerald hearing for the purpose of determining what occurred during the election of former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald as Congressman from the tenth district, resolved itself into a routine matter today by spending the entire day in checking up between 300 and 400 summonses for witnesses who have been heard at previous sessions.

The hearing opened late in Room 445 of the Federal Building, and then adjourned to Room 447, which is merely a jury room of the Federal Courts. The many people who had gathered in anticipation of continued sensations were much chagrined when they found themselves unable to crowd into the smaller room.

Upon the announcement that the entire day would be spent in checking up summonses of witnesses, Attorney O'Connell, Tague chief counsel, withdrew from the room to return to his office, his place being taken by Associate Attorney Frank A. Goodwin.

Ex-Congressman Peter F. Tague personally handled the large pile of summonses from the files of United States Marshal J. J. Mitchell's office and handed each one called for by Fitzgerald counsel to Mr. Callahan, who checked them off his list.

Use Cocoanut Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Advertisement.

COLORED, SUES WHITE WOMAN FOR LOST LOVE

Chauffeur's Wife Seeks $50,000 From Mrs. George E. Mott of New York

New York, April 3.—Mrs. Julia King, colored, has sued Mrs. Augusta L. Mott, white, for $50,000 damages in the Supreme Court. Mrs. King charged Mrs. Mott with having alienated the affections of her husband, Albert King, a colored chauffeur.

Mrs. Mott is the wife of George E. Mott, a lawyer, at No. 32 Nassau street. She is a middle-aged woman. He has a home at Far Rockaway. The papers on file in the Supreme Court show that his wife was served with the complaint at the Hotel Marie Antoinette. It was said last night at the hotel that she is not there.

Mrs. King alleged that her husband, a man about thirty, was a loyal and loving spouse until after he went into the employ of Mrs. Mott as a chauffeur. In 1913, 1914, 1915 and 1916, Mrs. King asserts, Mrs. Mott used endearing terms in speaking to King and wrote him letters.

TERMS OF AFFECTION.

On one occasion, Mrs. King declares, Mrs. Mott wrote King:

"My dearest boy, my heart is with you every minute of the time. I must tell you that I am sad and very lonely."

Mrs. King said she called on Mrs. Mott and asked her not to interfere with the domestic affairs of the King household. Mrs. King said that Mrs. Mott told her King was "a good boy too nice for his wife and did not want her around."

Mrs. Mott has filed an answer denying the charges and branding them as "utterly absurd." Grant C. Fox is her counsel.

When the case was called for trial before Justice Burro, former State Senator Edgar T. Brackett appeared as counsel for Mrs. King. Alexander Mayper, former Assistant District Attorney, and former Assemblyman Abraham Greenberg were also present as her attorneys. Several white and colored witnesses were present. Senator Brackett had the trial adjourned until Monday.

WIFE CHARGES NEGLECT.

As a result of Mrs. Mott's influence upon King, it is alleged by his wife he neglected his own home. Mrs. King says he used to remain away from home for long periods and failed to support her adequately.

Mr. Mott declined to make any statement.

MASTER PAINTERS TO INSIST ON ARBITRATION

"The master painters will make no effort toward settling the strike of the painters until they show a disposition to arbitrate," declared Asa C. Jewett, president of the Master Painters Association of Newton, whose 125 employes struck for an increase to $5 per day. The minimum wage is now $4.

Mr. Jewett declared that the average wage of the striking painters is about $30 per week.

"The master painters are not opposing an increase at this time because they believe the workers should not have it, but they would prefer that an increase be made later when there is plenty of work to be done and things are stabilized," he said.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief for Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomachache and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antacid, such as bisurated magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

CASE OF PHONE RATES GOING TO U. S. COURT

Commission Will Seek to Force Company to Return to Pre-War Figures

The Public Service Commission will bring proceedings in the Supreme Court of the United States against the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company to compel the latter to disregard a schedule of toll rates established by Postmaster General Burleson, and to return to rates in existence before the order of the Postmaster General.

It is claimed by the Public Service Commission that Congress, by its resolution, which authorized the President to take over telegraph and telephone companies as a war measure, reserved to the States the right to regulate telephone rates in each State, and that, therefore, the telephone company must comply with the decree of the Public Service Commission and disregard the order of the Postmaster General.

The Massachusetts Supreme Court, before which the matter was first brought, did not pass upon the direct issue raised, but decided that the Public Service Commission could not maintain its petition as the United States was a necessary party and could not be sued.

Assistant Attorney General William H. Hitchcock will represent the Public Service Commission at Washington, and the scope of the resolution of Congress will be the main question presented to the court.

American Finds Job for Lame Soldier

The Boston American has found a job for that lame soldier. The Soldiers and Sailors' Employment Bureau on Boston Common telephoned the American Tuesday that this soldier, made lame in the back by meningitis contracted in the war, had vainly sought work for four months. Today the American received a letter from the William Coupe Company, Ltd., of South Attleboro, manufacturers of patent leather, offering a night watchman's job to this man and offering, also, to pay his expenses to South Attleboro to "talk it over." The Soldiers and Sailors' Employment Bureau was notified of the chance.

TONS OF FRESH FISH SHIPPED BY AMERICAN

Haddock and Cod Sent by Express to Consumers All Over New England

Several tons of fine haddock and cod have been shipped to hundreds of cities, towns and hamlets in New England. It was the first shipment of freshly caught fish sent in twenty-pound boxes at cost by Alden A. Mills, the fish expert who opened the Boston American Fish Stores.

Trim, neat wooden boxes, each containing twenty pounds of haddock and cod, were packed, iced, marked and shipped by a large corps of specially trained men who worked far into the night to get the fish off in time to reach purchasers in time for tomorrow night's dinner.

Special attention should be called to the fact that at the present time only cod and haddock are being shipped in this manner and that all shipments are in twenty-pound lots. Mr. Mills shortly expects to announce he is prepared to ship fresh herring, finnan haddie and salt codfish at cost prices in a similar manner.

Many orders have been received for mackerel and other varieties which are not being shipped in this way, although they may be found on sale in the Boston American Fish Stores which are selling fish at cost in Boston and vicinity and other cities. At present it is impractical for many reasons to offer mackerel and varieties other than cod and haddock for shipment by express.

Attention is also called to the fact that the price of fish shipped by express is seven cents a pound, the increase of two cents a pound over the price of five cents being charged in the Boston American Fish Stores within the Metropolitan District representing the cost of packing and shipping the fish. The express charges are paid by the purchaser.

Orders continue to flood the office of Alden A. Mills, No. 101 Tremont street, to whom the mail or American Express money orders for $1.40 should be made out. Shipments will be made daily. Should you desire your fish shipped on a certain day, mention that fact in your order. Thousands of loose and a large corps of men are on hand, as well as the fish, to supply your demands. Order fresh caught cod or haddock for your next Sunday dinner! And do it now!

Here is food for thirty people delivered to you for $1.40.

Or get your neighbors to join with you in ordering twenty pounds of fine cod or haddock by sending a money order for $1.40 to Alden A. Mills, No. 101 Tremont street, Boston.

SPAIN FIRST NEUTRAL TO JOIN LEAGUE

Paris, April 3.—Spain, as the first neutral nation, has officially given her adhesion to the League of Nations amended covenant and declared her desire to enter into the league.

This news was conveyed in a letter to President Wilson by the Spanish ambassador in Paris, Quinones de Leon, just published. It declares Spain's adhesion to the new covenant "as far as the essentials are concerned," and provided that it "will not be changed in its general outlines."

Spain reserves for herself the privilege of introducing "some changes of certain matters of detail considered worthy of special attention."

The letter adds that "at the proper time His Majesty's government will solicit the necessary authorization of the Cortes (Spanish Parliament) to join in the collaboration of the governments represented at the peace conference, by becoming a member of the society of nations."

PHONE STRIKE TALK ALARMS BUSINESS

Just how Boston and New England may be tied up by the worst telephone strike in history the Telephone Operators' Union refused to disclose today.

The union has threatened a strike to take place Saturday, and involve thousands of telephone operators and allied workers. If this threatened strike comes through, Boston and New England are due for a partial industrial paralysis that appalls the business men of the city.

The Operators' Union leaders today refused to make known the next step they are to take leading up to a strike. The union announced today that it would hold a meeting tomorrow night, at which the grievances of the girls would be discussed. A statement is to be made after the meeting.

Miss Julia S. O'Connor, president of the union, will preside at tomorrow night's meeting and it is expected that she will present to the members a complete review of the situation that has led up to the imminent possibility of a strike, including the specific grievance of the Springfield exchange girls, who are still incensed over the action of their local traffic chief in using his authority as an officer of the State Guard to call out a company of his men and conduct a "fake raid" of the telephone exchange.

LABOR CONGRESS CALLS FOR WORLD PARLIAMENT

London, April 3.—A resolution calling for the creation of an international parliament was adopted by the trade union congress at a meeting at Central Hall today.

War Vets to Stamp Out 'Reds'

Providence, April 3.—Thomas W. Connell Post, Veterans of the Foreign Wars, has announced its intention of stamping out Bolshevism in this State. A mass meeting will be held Sunday in Fay's Theatre, to which the veterans have invited the Socialists to send speakers for a debate.

The Soldiers' Service Bureau of the Boston American is dedicated to the purpose of doing things for the soldiers and sailors of Uncle Sam. It is for officers and men alike. Answers to questions will be published in the American daily, and many personal services will be done for the soldiers and sailors as stated below.

Address all communications to Soldiers' Service Bureau, Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.

Persons finding the discharge papers of soldiers or sailors should make every effort to return them to their owners. A discharge paper cannot be duplicated. The War Department can only issue a certificate that the discharge has been given. Frequently the owner loses his original, and would greatly appreciate its return.

SAYS STRIKERS ARE READY TO ARBITRATE

Lawrence, April 2.—The Lawrence textile strikers are ready to accept arbitration by Henry B. Endicott of Boston, to comply with all his terms and to return to work pending his verdict, which they will abide.

This was the opinion expressed today by A. J. Muste of Boston, the Quaker parson, who has been one of the leaders of the strike. Mr. Muste said that he could not speak with absolute certainty, as no vote had been taken on the question of compromise, but he believed his statement was justified.

Other strike chiefs indorsed Mr. Muste's opinion, and said that the readiness of the operatives to arbitrate their differences with the mill men disposed of the claim that a Bolshevist uprising, not a strike, was being staged at

"If we are not for Bolshevism, arbitration would be the last thing we would seek," said a man close to the Kaplan, general strike secretary.

Mr. Muste ridiculed the statement of H. L. Sherman of the Community Labor Board that only 5,000 operatives are idle. Mr. Muste's estimate is that at least 20,000 are still on strike.

With reference to arbitration, Mr. Muste said: "The strikers are earnest and honest in their desire to effect a peaceable settlement. They welcome the solution of arbitration. It is my opinion they would abide by all Mr. Endicott's conditions. That is for them to determine by ballot, however."

The conditions on which Mr. Endicott would agree to act as umpire would be a promise by both sides to abide by his decision and the return to work of the operatives, pending adjustment. The mill agents have steadfastly rejected compromise.

Ine Kaplan, secretary of the general strike committee, charges that he was assaulted by the police while engaged in peaceful picketing. Charles G. Wood, State arbitrator, has written a fiery letter to the Mayor's committee on the strike, accusing the committee of giving him bad advice.

"TRAILERS" FOR THE ASHMONT-MILTON LINE

The two-car or "trailer" system will be tried out on the Ashmont and Milton lines of the Boston Elevated beginning Saturday, in an effort to satisfy the people of Dorchester, who have been demanding better car service. Each train will consist of a "lead" car seating fifty-two passengers and a "trailer" seating fifty-six. Between 8 and 7 in the morning the two-car trains will leave the Andrew square station of Dorchester tunnel at six-minute intervals, during the rush hours at noon and night at five-minute intervals, and at other times during the day at seven or eight-minute intervals.

TERRITORIALS ONLY FOR CRISIS, SAYS CHURCHILL

London, April 2 (By British Wireless).—Colonel Winston Churchill, Secretary of State for War, announced today that the British territorial forces would be reorganized into fourteen divisions, with fourteen mounted brigades. First line territorial units in the army of occupation overseas probably will be replaced. Colonel Churchill concluded by saying:

"The new territorial force should not be liable to serve overseas until an emergency is so serious that the general military act passed by Parliament (conscription) is necessary."

CHALONER TO RETURN TO NEW YORK AS WITNESS

New York, April 3.—John Armstrong Chaloner of "who's loony now" fame, and who escaped from Bloomingdale after being adjudged insane in this State, and is now a resident of Roanoke Rapids, N. C., will return to New York without danger of being arrested and returned to the asylum. The immunity is assured him by a writ of prohibition obtained from Federal Judge Hand. The writ was issued to permit Chaloner to appear here as a witness in a suit which he has brought against the Evening Post.

"JITNEY ICE" FOR POOR THIS YEAR IS PLANNED

Roland G. Hopkins, general manager of the Boston Ice Company, in an address at the 21st annual convention of the Massachusetts Ice Dealers' Association, announced that despite the prevailing shortage of ice the poor in Boston will receive their usual supply during the Summer at the rate of 100 pounds for 50 cents. This ice will be sold at "Jitney stations" throughout the city and will be brought to Boston from the North.

Mayor Peters, by letter, praised last year's "jitney stations," and assured the association of his support during the coming year.

MOSES AND WILSON TO DEBATE LEAGUE

Announcement is made of a joint discussion of the League of Nations between Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire and Professor George Grafton Wilson of Harvard in the Town House of Peterborough, N. H., on Friday evening, April 11, under the auspices of the Men's Club of that town. Senator Moses is one of the thirty-nine who signed the round robin, and is critic of the League of Nations as first drafted. Professor Wilson is one of the chief experts of the nation on international law.

SHOE WORKERS MAY REJECT 48-HOUR WEEK

Brockton, April 2.—Doubt exists in this city as to whether the shoe workers will accept the recent offer of the manufacturers of a forty-eight-hour working week with fifty hours' pay. The offer has been made to the joint shoe council which represents 2,000 members of the unions here. The non-acceptance of the award may result from the fact that recently the joint council indorsed a forty-four-hour week. The manufacturers feel that the award is a big concession, as shoe prices are likely to drop, they say.

Plan 800-Foot Airship to Cross Seas With 140 Passengers

By DELT M. EDWARDS,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, April 3.—Now comes the greyhound of the air—800 feet long, to carry 140 passengers, with saloon, smokeroom and elevator.

Messrs. Vickers & Co., the armament firm, have been experimenting on various types. They have come to the conclusion that such a great airship could be built immediately for the crossing of the Atlantic.

WITH COMFORTS OF BIG LINER.

They have decided on a craft of the following dimensions:

Length, 800 feet; diameter, 100 feet; height, 105 feet; maximum speed, 75 miles an hour; disposal lift, 65 tons, available for fuel, stores, passengers, crew, mail and freight; engines, 3,500 horsepower; gas capacity, 2,500,000 cubic feet—and a range of 4,000 miles at a speed of 40 miles an hour.

Passengers are to travel with the comfort almost of an ocean liner. Compartments, according to the designs, would be in a saloon fitted at the top of the airship, provided with tables and chairs in the style of a Pullman car. Part of the saloon would be fireproof, so it could be used as a smoke room.

An open deck would be provided aft of the saloon for promenade while an observation car would be swung below the hull. The sleeping quarters would be small cabins fitted with berths.

An elevator is designed to take the passengers from the passenger deck to the lower part of the vessel.

TWO DAYS TO CROSS OCEAN.

Given good winds and favorable conditions, the run would be made between New York and London by the most direct route, about 2,000 miles. But if conditions were bad the route would be by the Azores-Newfoundland route, altogether a distance of about 3,000 miles.

Sixty hours would be the length of the indirect voyage and about forty-eight for the direct course.

Going further, these commercial aerial men are figuring on reaching almost any corner of the world in ten days. They count on a schedule as follows: From London to

New York	2 to 2½ days
San Francisco	4½ days
Cairo	1½ days
Colombo	4½ days
Perth	7 days
Nairobi	3½ days
Cape Town	5½ days
Rio Janeiro	4 days

Bringing it down a little more definitely, the company has concluded that two sailings between New York and London would be made each way each week. Four vessels would be put in commission—two in continuous service to provide for the other two laying up for overhauling and refitting regularly.

The crew would consist of a commanding officer, two navigating officers, two steersmen, two elevator men, eight engineers, two wireless operators and two stewards, who would work in two watches of eight hours each.

CLEMENCY FOR TWO MORE CONDEMNED SOLDIERS

Washington, April 3.—The lives of two more soldier-slayers have been saved through executive clemency, the War Department announced this afternoon. President Wilson commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed upon Private Ernest Crutchfield, 364th Infantry, who killed Sergeant Frederick F. Carroll, same organization, at La Voivre, France, last August. The death sentence passed upon Private George Davis of a labor battalion, who killed Private Charles Jackson at Newport News last August, was commuted to twenty years.

100 IN FLIGHT FROM NORTH END FIRE

More than 100 persons were driven into street scantily clad, while more than a score of others fled over fire escapes to an adjoining building early today, when a fire on the second floor of the five-story brick building at No. 33 Charter street, North End, threatened to destroy the building.

Where carrying babies wrapped in nothing they could pick up when the alarm was given, hurried into the street and were taken into nearby homes. Those who made their way over the fire escapes were taken through the windows of adjoining buildings.

But a stiff fight the firemen confined the damage to the floor on which the fire started.

'DRY' SUMMER MEANS ICE FOR THE HOME

Cheer up, Boston, prohibition this Summer will make you thousands of tons ahead of the game on ice.

This is the encouragement extended to Boston housewives by George H. Voter, vice-president of the Massachusetts Ice Dealers' Association, in convention today at the American House.

PLENTY FOR BOSTON.

"It would take three or four days and the consultation of several leading ice dealers to compute the exact saving in ice that prohibition will effect," said Voter. "However, even without this saving, Boston housekeepers need not fear that there will be any shortage. This past Winter, we all know, has been very mild.

"Boston ice dealers, however, are little hampered by the cold weather here in Massachusetts, since for many years now Boston has drawn her supply in large measure from the Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. Though the Winter there, too, has been fairly mild, it has not compared with Boston. Therefore, we know now by ice harvests already awaiting Boston that the defect is negligible for Boston.

"There will be plenty of ice this Summer at just the usual prices. With out-of-town localities the situation is not so promising. I might mention several towns drawing their supply from Massachusetts itself who are absolutely without ice. These town have therefore had to build ice plants in New Hampshire, to pay, in one season, for all the involved machinery of getting the ice here.

HIGHER IN OTHER PLACES.

"The price of ice in these towns must necessarily be excessive the coming Summer. But the price of ice will be fixed by local conditions in each town. However, since Boston has very nearly the whole supply of ice, and since Boston has probably more than she may need, we expect to help adjacent localities when possible. At any rate, we shall maintain the less than cost, cash and carry ice stations for poor people the coming season, just as we did in the Summer just gone.

SEIZED CITY PLANTS AT JOHANNESBURG

Sees His First Movie and Refuses to Approve

Manchester, N. H., April 3.—Woodchoppers have come down from the north country and expressed surprise that this country was at war with Germany, or that the war was over, but it remained for Arthur Shirley, elder of the Church of God here, to come forth with a surprise.

At a meeting held to decide whether it was proper for Manchester to see a certain film production, Elder Shirley after the picture was shown, and upon being invited to speak on its merits or demerits said:

"I have never seen a motion picture in my life before, and I have lived in Manchester a good many years. I want to go on record as opposed to moving pictures, and will not approve this one."

SOLDIER IS ROBBED OF TWO YEARS' SERVICE PAY

Springfield, April 3.—Private John Aiukonis of Holyoke, a returning Canadian soldier, who received his discharge and immediately boarded a train from Montreal to this city, reported when he arrived here that he had been robbed of $160 which represented his savings in two years of service in France.

He believes that some one watched him as he bought his ticket and later took the money while he was asleep in a train berth.

ROBERTA ARNOLD, who has a leading role in "Adam and Eva" at the Park Square Theatre.

LOVES TO KEEP AUDIENCE LAUGHING

Roberta Arnold Prefers Comedy Roles to Doleful Impersonations

By FRED J. McISAAC.

Roberta Arnold is the only Californian I ever met who wasn't rambunctiously boosting the Golden State.

The clever comedienne of "Adam and Eva" says that she doesn't mind living in the East. In fact, the East is a pretty nice place. She wouldn't go so far as to knock California, but she gets along very nicely three thousand miles away.

Just wait until those Los Angeles boosters hear about this. They'll probably say her first name ought to be Benedict.

GOT START ON COAST.

"I was born in San Francisco, but I was educated in the South and lived in Los Angeles for several years because of the condition of my father's health," said Miss Arnold. "I got my dramatic start in the Morosco Stock Company in Los Angeles and Mr. Morosco made me his leading woman after a very few months' experience. I spent a couple of seasons there and then I married and retired.

"Somehow domestic life and I didn't get along and I came back to the stage, this time coming East and getting on Broadway in 'Up Stairs and Down.' I have become very fond of the East. The West gave me health and strength but the East gave me opportunity."

"Do you like your part in 'Adam and Eva' better than in 'Lombardi, Ltd?'" In "Lombardi," you remember, she played a doleful and deserted sweetheart.

"Oh, I prefer comedy. I hated my part in 'Lombardi.' I trailed crape every time I came on the stage. I love to say things to make an audience laugh and I didn't have a single funny line in 'Lombardi.'

GAVE HER CHANCE.

"I am glad I played it though because it gave me a chance to get away from the type in which New York knew me. You remember in 'Upstairs and Down' I played a very cynical and blase girl. My part in 'Adam and Eva' is something like that, but this girl turns out to be very decent before the play is over. The best part I ever had was in 'The Walk Off,' and that piece only lasted five weeks. I call that too bad. It seems to me that I am talking about myself an awful lot."

"That's what I came to find out about."

"Well," said Miss Arnold as the stage manager knocked at her door, "put me down as one who loves to hear people laugh."

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have found their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar, stir until dissolved. Take a tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any cases of accretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing rumbling, hissing sounds in their ears, should give this recipe a trial.

"I had 30 running sores on my leg for 11 years; was in three different hospitals. Amputation was advised. Skin grafting was tried. I was relieved by using Peterson's Ointment."—Mrs. F. E. Root, 281 Michigan Street, Buffalo, N. Y.—Advertisement.

LODGE DEMANDS RETURN OF CABLES

Only Hope for Relief of Business Losses in Messages, Says U. S. Senator

Prompt return to private ownership of cables is the only hope for relief of American business men who have suffered large losses due to delays in transmission, says Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

Senator Lodge expressed this opinion in a letter received by the Joseph H. Wheelock Co., No. 153 Summer street. In reply to a communication from the Wheelock Company, the Senator quoted from a letter received by him from the Postoffice Department:

"In regard to cable delays. The South Africa delay is mainly due to conditions over which the United States government has no control and is caused primarily by the interruption of a number of trunk cables which the Eastern Telegraph Company were unable to repair during the war on account of submarine activities, and which they have been unable to repair since the war because of the impracticability of making deep sea repairs in the Winter season. This condition should become normal when the weather conditions permit the Eastern Telegraph Company to effect repairs, and the time on the transatlantic section will also be improved as soon as ships can make repairs on the cable now interrupted.

TO PRIVATE OWNERSHIP.

The Senator, in closing, expressed his opinion that the only relief will be had by the prompt return of cables to private ownership.

The Wheelock Company has been a heavy sufferer through cable transmission delays, and has protested without improvement of conditions to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, the State Department, Senator Lodge, the Boston Wool Trade Association and the Boston Chamber of Commerce. No relief has been promised, although Boston importing and exporting firms declare that their business has been seriously inconvenienced by inexplicable delays.

One cable which the Wheelock Company sent to Gilbert Watson & Co., Port Elizabeth, South Africa, on January 20, was delivered thirteen days after it was filed on February 3. Another, sent January 22, was delivered to the Watson Company February 3, a delay of twelve days in transmission. On February 3 the Watson Company sent a cable to the Wheelock firm, which reached in eight days later.

Before the war, it was pointed out, cables could be sent from Boston to South Africa in four hours. Now, it is said, anywhere from forty-eight hours to three weeks may be expected to elapse before a message is delivered.

Apparently, messages from foreign points to the United States take less time than they did, but what time from the United States going abroad, for some little understood reason.

The service has become less efficient since the war, one firm said.

LONG AND COSTLY DELAYS.

Instances of long and costly delays were given by J. T. Meader Co., Inc., at No. 157 Federal street, which does a large business by cable.

Samuel W. Bridges of the Ayres, Bridges & Co., No. 200 Summer street, who has been a heavy sufferer through cable delays, denied today that he had inferred that British censorship was the cause of the delay or that he had intimated that the cables were held up in England until copies had been made and sent to British boards of trade.

"I have never made such an insinuation," he told the American, "because I have no such knowledge. There is no question, however, about the delay being costly, and that messages filed during the war took but forty-eight hours in transmission, now take from one to three weeks.

"There is a feeling in exporting circles that there must be some good reason for this delay, but what that reason is I am not able to find out."

Another firm pointed out that the British censorship on American cables had been raised at midnight on March 12, and that there had been no apparent increase in cable efficiency since that time.

HANDS TIED BY LEAGUE, SAYS MOSES

U. S. Shackled in Dealing With Japs, Declares Senator From New Hampshire

United States Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire declared today that, if Japan should "plant" herself at Magdalena Bay, the United States would be shackled by the proposed covenant to the League of Nations and that he was opposed to handcuffing this country.

Senator Moses, the fifth Senator to sign the round robin against the proposed league, was at the Parker House today, following an address at the City Club the night before.

He is a profound student of European and racial affairs and was one of the framers of the so-called "Balkan covenant," which was drawn in an effort to smooth the vexed tangle among the Balkan states prior to the world war.

LOOKING FOR OUTLET.

After citing the two chief causes of war as effort to take care of surplus population or to expand commercially, Senator Moses said that Japan had at least one of those problems before her. He went on:

"In order to solve the great problem which she has before her, Japan must find an outlet and must find it either in Asia or on this hemisphere.

"To state it more specifically, she has decided to find this outlet either in Siberia or Latin America.

"One great question for us to consider is whether Japan is seeking expansion, shall look east or west. I prefer she should look west. I prefer this turn to Vladivostok instead of to Magdalena Bay.

"Yet, if she should plant herself at Magdalena Bay, we would be shackled by the proposed covenant to the League of Nations. I am opposed to putting any manacles on America.

"Suppose Japan, through some commercial organization, took a colony on Magdalena Bay. Suppose their colonists, by their own personal qualities, such as manners and mode of life, should establish their influence there. Are we not then confronted with the situation which the Monroe Doctrine declares is intolerable, namely—an attempt to set up on this hemisphere a foreign system? And, if that is so, what remedy would we have under this covenant of the League of Nations?"

KOREA NOT ENOUGH.

In discussing Japan's enterprises, Senator Moses also said:

"We have seen Japan, with her overflow population, overstep the Nippon Islands. The Korean kingdom was wiped out by her. Still that was not enough for her expansion. She went to war with Russia over Manchuria. The question was whether Manchuria should be peopled from the east by Japanese or from the west by Russians. Japan won. But the Japanese economical experiment in Manchuria has proved a failure. It has been demonstrated that Japanese cannot live and compete successfully with the indigenous Chinese.

"The Japanese policy was a failure in Manchuria. The Japanese is not so much a superior race as to have accomplished his purpose over the Chinese and supplanted him in Manchuria. It may be that the inertia of the great mass of Chinese population has been too great for the Japanese to overcome.

SHORT-SIGHTED POLICY.

"When opportunity was afforded Japan a year ago of going into Eastern Siberia there was opposition in Washington. To my mind it was a short-sighted policy in Washington. At the root of this policy was the fear that Japan, once in Siberia, would stay there. I think she should have gone there and stayed there. There are vast open spaces in Siberia for agricultural and industrial development."

COLE ATTENDS MASS FOR HIS LATE ORDERLY

Visits Marlboro and Joins Veterans of World War in Tribute to Sergt. Lyons

Marlboro, April 3.—Hundreds of residents turned out to greet Brigadier-General Charles H. Cole, who came here today to attend a requiem mass for his orderly, Sergeant Dennis F. Lyons, Jr. Sergeant Lyons died in France of pneumonia one month ago. Mass was celebrated in the Church of the Immaculate Conception by the Rev. John O'Keefe, a former army chaplain.

General Cole arrived a little late, in an automobile driven by Mrs. Cole. He went first to City Hall, and found that Mayor Charles F. McCarthy had already gone to the church.

After the service Mayor McCarthy caused the fire alarm to be sounded and the party repaired to City Hall, where a crowd which included 200 soldiers, veterans of the war, had gathered. General and Mrs. Cole were escorted to the steps by Mayor McCarthy, amid loud cheering. Mrs. Cole was introduced by the Mayor as "General Cole's commander." She received an ovation as enthusiastic as that accorded to her husband.

General Cole paid a high tribute to Sergeant Lyons, whom he characterized as "not only a brave and gallant soldier, but a noble man in every respect."

"I knew him as a father knows his son," said General Cole. He spoke touchingly of the young soldier's last hours, and declared that whenever any dangerous mission was contemplated, Sergeant Lyons would ask for the privilege of being sent.

The General made a strong plea for employment for returned soldiers.

"They are the ones who won the war," said he. "It was they who suffered the heat and cold, the mud, rain and snow."

'Receiver' May Have to Be Appointed for Germany

By H. J. GREENWALL,
Exclusive Cable by the International News Service and the London Daily Express.

Berlin, April 2, via London, April 3.—An official "receiver" must be appointed for Germany by the allies as soon as peace is signed, and Anglo - American troops must march into the country to keep order and keep down Bolshevism, according to the opinion of German intellectuals.

Germany is on the brink of a precipice and a touch will send her into the abyss of anarchy and Bolshevism.

Thinking Germans believe that the allies must make peace without any delay.

I had a long interview with a former premier of Bavaria who said that the food situation in Munich is very bad and that there is much suffering on the part of the poor.

NEARLY 60,000 MEN RELEASED AT DEVENS

Plans of Billeting Troops of the 26th Division Boys Are Complete

By THOMAS F. PHELAN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, April 3.—Approximately 58,474 soldiers have been discharged from this cantonment since the armistice was signed, according to a report issued today. Of this number more than 25,000 represented the Plymouth division, of which Major-General McCain, camp commander, was head. At least 1,000 more will return to civil life today, 750 tomorrow and 650 Saturday.

Plans for billeting the Yankee Division are completed. The division will be quartered in the area occupied by the 76th Division. The three machine gun battalions will be placed in the Depot Brigade area. There will be some crowding in part of the Infantry brigade area, because of the presence of 1,000 soldiers of the 26th Infantry quartered here.

Arrangements have been made by the camp bakery company to feed each soldier of the Yankee Division during quarantine incident to the cleaning of the men's uniforms in the sanitary process machine. Later each company will establish its own mess.

Colonel E. F. Harding is head of the general court-martial board appointed to try a lieutenant next week. Captain John M. Beckwith, former State attorney of Chicago, who prosecuted the case of Captain Harry J. Harris of the Quartermaster Corps, is judge advocate. The identity of the accused lieutenant has been withheld by Major-General McCain in order to be wholly fair to him. The nature of the charges is also withheld. An experienced stenographer has been engaged. The hearings will be public and will start Tuesday.

General Secretary William J. O'Brien, who has been in charge of Knights of Columbus war work in this cantonment, has been transferred to the overseas department. His home is in Northampton. He left today. Philip Desmond, who was in charge of the orders work at Camp Humphreys, succeeds O'Brien.

STRIKES SWEEP BIG SPANISH CITIES

SCHEDULE FOR TONIGHT.

Bobby Josephs vs. Young Proto, at Lynn.

Tommy Robson vs. Zulu Kid, at Buffalo, N. Y.

Lefty Major vs. Dave Powers, at Albany.

Johnny Tillman vs. Walter Mohr, at Atlantic City, N. J.

By RINGSIDE.

Manager-Matchmaker Bob McKirdy of the Commercial A. C. has been forced to revise tomorrow night's card at the Home of Action. His changes are good ones; in fact, make the bill all the spicier.

Johnny Downes of South Boston, who has been working even better than heretofore since he got out of the navy, will take Charley Shepard's place against Charley Bergin of New Haven, Ct.

The Joe Melanson-Danny McCormack bout has been wiped out, and Tommy Moore of Providence and Johnny Gray of Chelsea will work in place of those two juveniles. This, too, should be a noisy number.

Dowd and Bergin had it out in hammer and tongs style in the same ring three weeks ago, their boilermaker battle being adjudged a draw by Colonel Conley. And that's precisely what it was.

The other two skits stand as originally booked, to wit: Mike Keanes of Detroit vs. Joe Riley of Troy, N. Y., in the third ten-rounder, and Young Leonard of Chelsea vs. Phil Chemito of Dorchester, in the curtain-raiser at six rounds.

The Ralph Brady-Benny Valger scrap, slated for next Tuesday night at the Grand Opera House, should prove a good one. Brady has made a distinct hit with local fight followers. Valger, too, is in the good graces of the boys who pay the freight.

* * *

Ivy Lewis has signed up another promising battle for Tuesday night, April 15. It will be Bobby Josephs vs. Barney Snyder.

* * *

Dave Powers of Malden was reported as having lost to Dummy Burns in a battle in Maine a few nights ago. The real facts gave Dave all the better of the scrap. The wire chasers are as busy in Maine as in New York.

* * *

The Lowell and Lawrence promoters are kicking up a grand little battle among themselves and we may have an intercity bout between the managers if it keeps on.

* * *

The Feeney A. A. directors still hopeful of pulling off that championsick match, and it is announced that Joe Eagan and Jeff Smith will come together next Wednesday night.

* * *

Bobby Josephs, one of our best little local boys, gets back in the ring tonight after several weeks' layoff due to his bad hand. The South End battler will meet Young Proto in the main bout at the Lynn show. Reports from the Shoe City point to a record house.

GILDEA GIVES BATTERY MEN WORKOUT IN CAGE

Coach Gildea of the Boston College baseball team took no chances on the weather and called off outdoor work. He contented himself by giving his battery men a drill in the cage. NEW ENGLAND LEAGUE TO GET GOING MAY 15

Lawrence, April 2.—The New England League is ready for the season; all arrangements were perfected at a meeting of the clubowners here. Jesse Burkett and John Connelly exercised their option on the Haverhill franchise, while John H. Donnelly, head booster, announced that Lawrence and Lewiston will have clubs. Portland, Fitchburg and Lowell will complete the circuit. The season opens May 15 and closes Labor Day.

SCHOOLBOY SPORTS

Captain Hiezer in the only member of the championship 1918 crew back at Cambridge Latin. He has three squads to pick from and the chances for another winner are bright.

* * *

Norman Stuart was in charge of the Boston Latin crews that shoved off from the B. A. A. boathouse. Herb Ellis and Johnny Todd were among the candidates reporting.

* * *

Coach Thad Keefe of West Roxbury High has a large squad out for baseball—there are several juveniles who look as if they will make the team one of the best in Greater Boston.

* * *

Andrew Bird, dusky candidate for the Commerce baseball team, is showing up in great style. It looks as if he is going to be the choice for work at shortstop.

* * *

Joe Elliot got in the way of the battery candidates during practice and the result is Dan O'Flaherty is minus his nifty fast baseman. Joe had his nose broken.

* * *

Oulette of St. John's Prep is a track athlete. He is a five-letter man, having won his numerals in football, baseball, track, hockey and basketball.

* * *

Coach Devlin will have two good twirlers in Wahl and Morrissey. Wahl was on the team last year and plays right field when not on the slab.

* * *

Coach Fred O'Brien of Latin School has a large squad out for the baseball team. Manager Brothers will take care of second and third.

* * *

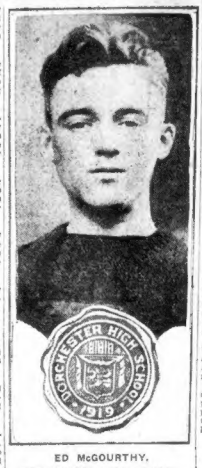
Coach Sutherland has started baseball practice going at Dedham High. This will be the first time in two years Dedham has been represented in any branch of sport.

* * *

Joe Duntley, former Latin School performer, will be behind the bat again this year for the Fenway A. C. team.

* * *

Cambridge Latin expects to receive a lot of assistance in crew work from Jim MacDonald, last year's captain, who is working in Cambridge and will probably be able to help along the good work. As no regular coach has been engaged, MacDonald's services will be a big lift.



ED McGOURTHY,
DORCHESTER HIGH SCHOOL.
A THREE SPORT MAN.

FOOTBALL and baseball are Ed McGourthy's leading sports. He plays in the backfield on the eleven and catches for the ball team. He is a dash man in track. He will graduate in June and next season will be representing Phillips Exeter.

HAUGHTON DONE AS HARVARD GRID COACH

By H. W. LANIGAN.

Percy Haughton, who bowed out of baseball last Summer to enter the service, is now bowing out of football, the sport which made him famous and which he, too, made so big, particularly hereabouts.

Where it was rumored out Cambridge way early in the Winter that Haughton would probably return as the Crimson's gridiron mentor, it was recently reported that as the noted coach had become associated with a Boston banking firm he would be unable to go back on his old job.

That such is the case is proven by the following statement given out by Haughton:

"Owing to many erroneous rumors and statements concerning my connection with Harvard football, I deem it only fair to the situation to state emphatically that it will be impossible for me to remain identified with football in any official capacity.

"I have become associated with the banking firm of White, Weld & Co., and intend to devote my entire time and attention to the banking business.

"However, after nine years of consecutive coaching at Harvard, it is perhaps unnecessary for me to express my heartfelt wish for the future success of football and particularly of Harvard teams."

MAT HUSKIES IN FINE TRIM FOR TITLE CLASH

The world's middleweight wrestling championship rests on the result of tonight's contest between Mike Yokel and Waino Ketonen, defendier and challenger, respectively, at the Grand Opera House.

As both men have come through their training work in the best of shape, the match should prove one of the hardest of the great series which has been in progress all season.

Boston fans, who know wrestling from A to Z, look for a lot of "inside" stuff, as both men are past masters at the grappling game.

Ketonen is a slight favorite in the betting. They have met on three previous occasions, with two victories to the credit of Yokel, while the third went to the Finn marvel.

HERE'S CHANCE FOR BIG FELLOWS OUT OF WORK

New York, April 2.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, is in town in search of some more sparring partners for his fighter. Dempsey lost his chief sparring partner when Andre Anderson quit after Jack put him to sleep in Philadelphia.

Dempsey has already started his tour with an athletic show. It winds up its schedule at Kansas City, April 28.

Sox vs. Giants; Jack Barry Spiked and Must Miss Series

By JACK CONWAY.

Tampa, Fla., April 2.—Jack Barry is not expected to be on second base for the Red Sox in their two- game series with the New York Giants which opens here tomorrow.

Barry was spiked in the right foot by Ruth in the final game between the Regulars and Battering Babes and is limping badly.

While trying to steal second, Ruth made a vicious plunge for the base, feet foremost. One of his spikes cut through a shinguard Barry has been wearing; penetrated his ankle support, cut the flesh slightly and caused a severe bruise.

During the absence of Barry, Shean will cover second base. Thye has been hitting well and fielding his position in fine style.

BOSTON BOXERS SHOW IN CAMP DEVENS RING

Camp Devens, Ayer, April 2.—An all-star boxing show will be held under the direction of the Knights of Columbus in the "Y" Auditorium tonight. The card: Sergeant Jung vs. Larry Costello, Shaver O'Brien vs. Joe Recco, Young Carney vs. Joe Burke and Sergeant White of C Company and Sergeant Swanson of A Company, 35th Infantry.

Last Night in the Ring

Portland, Me.—Ralph Brady, Syracuse, N. Y., lightweight, outed Tommy Tuohey of Paterson, N. J., double six-rounder. Brady scored a knockout in the fifth.

From Baseball Training Camps

ATHLETICS.

Philadelphia.—Bobby Roth has been appointed field captain by Connie Mack. The manager is in good spirits as all his regulars have reported and also most of his recruits. Ray Haley, one of Connie's infielders, arrived on the Kentuckian and will report before the season opens.

YANKEES.

Jacksonville, Fla.—Remembering the depredations made against the Yankees of other years by the jinx of Bill Donovan's time, Manager Huggins gave his players orders to take no unusual chances in sliding into bases. He also told them to keep their eyes peeled for batted or thrown balls in practice sessions. Hug has five pitchers ready for hard work, Mogridge, Thormahlen, Russell, Schneider and Quinn.

GIANTS.

Gainesville, Fla.—John McGraw was not sure of Larry Doyle's ability to keep pace with Zimmerman, Fletcher and Chase as the fourth members of his veteran infield combination when the training season started. But his fears have entirely disappeared, as Doyle is connecting regularly for vicious hits in practice, and that against hard pitching for the hurlers have begun to put speed and curves on the ball. The fielding of the veteran comeback is also satisfactory. Zimmerman, who has been troubled with a wife arm, is expected to work out the kinks in a few more days.

BROOKLYN.

Jacksonville, Fla.—Two of Brooklyn's best string pitchers have continued Uncle Robbie that they will be ready when the bell rings. Ruth Marquard and Al Mamaux, both of whom worked against the Yankees, showed plenty of stuff, during Schmandt's absence from the lineup with a spike wound. Malone will cover second base.

WHITE SOX.

Mineral Wells, Tex.—With the return of Fred McMullin, erstwhile holdout, Manager Gleason has a bigger infield problem than ever on his hands today. The difficulty is to decide which of the rookie infielders to retain. Ruiz, Hargrave, Henry and McClellan have impressed the Kid by their work, but with no opening for only one recruit, he doesn't know which of these aspiring athletes to retain. Although Gleason is working his men at top speed, every man in camp is in excellent shape and showing a gratifying amount of proper.

CLEVELAND.

New Orleans.—Manager Fohl reckons with four real trouble-some contenders in the race for the pennant. Those "in the money," as Fohl dopes it, will be the Red Sox, White Sox, Yankees, Griffmen and Indians. "But that's not the order they'll finish the season," says Fohl. "I cannot see a weak spot in either the attack or defense of my team. The infield and outfield are strong at every point. The catching staff, with O'Neill, Nunamaker and Thomas, is one of the greatest ever. If I had Klepfer, Myers and Zamloth back from France, I would have plenty of slab talent."

Alex Won't Be in High Right Off the Reel, Says Bill Killifer

Pasadena, Cal., April 2.—Baseball fans, particularly those who root for the Chicago Cubs, are warned by Bill Killifer not to expect too much of Grover Alexander, his old battery mate, when he doffs his U. S. Army togs and dons a baseball uniform.

"When a man gets out of baseball, even for one season," says Killifer, "he naturally uses a set of muscles he did not employ in the game, and which are not essential to baseball.

"In my own case I know that the army exercises were of little benefit to me in a baseball way.

"I don't believe too much should be expected of Alexander. I honestly believe it will take him quite a while to get back to his old form."

The "Victory" Liberty Loan

The crowning effort to finance the war is at hand. We have been told that the people will not patriotically take another Liberty Loan.

We do not believe it!

Patriotism is not a garment which is cast aside after eighteen months, not to be worn again!

Patriotism of the right kind is deeper seated than ever. Each one has sacrificed upon the Altar of Liberty something which was dear.

These sacrifices add fervor to our love of freedom for ourselves, and to our desire to give this greatest of blessings to all the world.

Peace must be financed as well as war. A substantial, durable peace requires the presence of our army and navy in adequate strength in strategic positions. But a small part of either can be safely demobilized. They must be maintained, victualed and clothed for many months after peace is an actuality.

The Fourth Liberty Loan paid our bills to December 15, 1918.

Expenses have been quite as great since the Armistice as during actual hostilities.

Let us pay the bills. It was our war and we won it.

We will rise to the demand and take our share of the "Victorious Fifth."

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

There must be something in this dope.

Here we figure the shortstops without thinking of anything except their off records . . batting, walking, being hit by pitched balls, fielding the ball, getting through and over the ground, and applying these figures to a series.

Then, when the mass of figures are compiled and added, we discover that the figures show the value of the players to be just about what the wise ones in the baseball world rate them to be.

The dope shows the values of the shortstops of the National League closer than ever before, St. Louis leading by only eight points over Chicago, so that it gives the Hornsby fans little comfort over the Hollocher admirers.

HORNSBY TO IMPROVE.

At that, I had to allow a little extra credit for almost certain improvements in Hornsby's work this year, and to shade Hollocher's values a trifle, because it is certain he will not go quite so good this year as he did last. His goat was a cruel two last even for him to maintain.

The first five shortstops of the National League rank so closely together that there is little to choose between them, and to put the great Bancroft, who formerly has been at the top in dope figures, fourth shows how closely the figures follow the form of the men.

Maranville, [illegible] club, of course, [illegible] the league. [illegible] that the Robot [illegible] up some dirt [illegible] It is reported that he is in better physical condition right now than he usually was at the start of a season.

OLSON AT BOTTOM.

There will be eight great fielding shortstops in the National League this season, with Olson ranking last although only twenty-eight points behind the leader in the dope, who, of course, is Maranville, by a slight margin.

Hollocher might have gained the lead, but for the fact that he demonstrated last season many times the fact that he is not strong in passing to his right and is slow starter after ground balls hit between him and third base unless set.

Also, Hollocher, in spite of his ardent adorers, must learn to study batters better if he ever is to rank with the great shortstops of the past.

Watch my column tomorrow for the dope on the American League shortstops. Likewise save the table up top for reference.

A JOB FOR A HERO

THE canary bird in the office of the Automatic Wart Works was waiting a few bars from "Seven men sat on the dead man's chest, you and a bottle of Beero." The cruel war was cured on both sides. The bird was again back on the job trying to design a synthetic wart that couldn't be detected from the genuine.

Outside the office a long queue of two-eared citizens stretched down in the corridor. They were all heroes of the ex Kaiser's late dinner trip. They were clogging the corridor in response to an ad for a model for the Automatic Collapsible Wart, which was a combination war [illegible] button and hat rack. All of the applicants bore themselves with a great deal of military bearing that would have distinguished them in a crowd of pigeons or a mob of morons.

The boss was a returned hero himself and was determined that his wart model and demonstrator would be none but another ex-A. E. F. in Europe. He had been a mounted K. P. in the first line trenches, and had thrice been cited for cooking omelets without eggs. He had never risen from the ranks because commissions were the only things that couldn't be won with a set of toplineary bones.

* * *

First Guy Stands Like a Broken Leg

THE first applicant knocked knucklishly on the doorpiece and the boss recognized his former top sarge. The sarge flushed like the sunlight striking a platter of thin army tomato soup. He saw that he was in like a burglar. The boss was a former boot that he had squads tasted and squads wested until his tongue hung out so far that the blackbirds used it for a roost.

"Well?" chirped the boss, coming to attention with both brogans on the desk.

"I would like the job you advertised in this morning's paper."

"Sir," buzzed the boss.

"I would like the job you advertised, sir."

"You can have a job, but not that one. Your job is eighteen a week and cakes. All you do is to squads right and squads wrong around this office and to sir me to death. Get me?"

"Yes."

"Yes, what?"

"Yes, sir."

* * *

Leaves Faster Than Mushroom Arrives . . .

THE next cukoo was the former boob's lieutenant, who opened the door very lieutenantishly and popped right in. The boss saluted him with the regulation O. D. civilian's salute, right thumb along the seam of the nose and fingers extended, but not joined.

"Go out and come in right," the boss howled in a tone like half a horse's tail. "Don't you know how to pop into an orderly room?"

The loot left faster than a mushroom arrives. This time he knocked. The boss lined him and outed him until he was dizzier than a loot generally is.

"What do you want?" squawked the boss, arching his eyebrows and looking through his former loot, which was a tough job, as loots are pretty calck.

"I would like that position as wart model."

"Wart model what?"

"Wart model sir."

"You can have a job, but not that one. You can run as bunion model and work your way up."

"Thank you."

"Thank you what?"

"Thank you, sir."

* * *

Getting Even With the ex-Captain

THE next fish to grab the hook, sinker and all, was the buttery ex-captain. He was the sapp who had refused the boss the fur one time when the boss grandmother was celebrating the brass anniversary of [illegible] and wedding ring. When dealing out the army underwear he had doled out the size thirty pairs of sox with nothing missing except the feet, and was so busy in the campaign but that made him look like a half-chewed [illegible] ears, and two pairs of No. 20 trousers. The boss' size was 40 and the cap had told him to add em up.

"So you want a job as wart model," said the boss, giving the cap the vertical and horizontal once over. "Have you had any experience outside of the army?"

"Oh, yes."

"Oh, yes what?"

"Oh, yes, sir."

"You're the lobb who staked me to a pair of boots that were [illegible] too numerous, ain't you?" When I mounted, you told me I could [illegible] or seven sizes without deserting my post. You hired some [illegible] foot looter to store into a bugle at 4 A. M. so he could wake us all up when the [illegible] turbing himself, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"Yes what?"

"Yes, sir."

"That's better. The job is yours. Read these four yards of [illegible] regulations. Celluloid collars must be shined in the rear. Any violation of the office rules will result in twenty years at Fort Jimeswrath. Every time I sneeze jump to attention and salute the canary bird. I have hay fever, but the canary doesn't know it. Who are those other sapps in the line?"

"A lot of generals and colonels, sir. All from your old cantonment."

"Well, tell 'em to march away in squad formation. We don't need those kind of models. The doorknob factory is four barracks down the street."

Her favorite amusement is playing with the wonder box of the late Professor Alfred Milner, a few pages of whose diary are always read to her rather as prelude to her as a bedtime story. The box contains treasures which Rue plays and finds absorbing interest. She learns from the diary that Wilner saw the box being dropped from a yacht in the Bosphorus and fished it up with the body of a boy about six years old in a sack.

Wilner, as an agent of the German government, makes plans for fortifying Gallipoli. The duplicates of these are stolen and he gets evidence that the Turks seek his life. He gives the box to Rev. Mr. Carew for safe keeping with instructions to send the plans to Berlin in case he is killed. He is stoned to death, but Mr. Carew keeps the papers. U. S. BUYS RAILROAD TIES BEFORE STEEL PRODUCTS

The West Coast Lumbermen's Association says the railroad administration has ordered of Oregon and State of Washington mills 175,000,000 feet of Douglas fir ties for Atlantic coast roads. As the ties will be taken to the East Coast by the wooden steamships, the freight will be paid to extend instead of railroads. According to statements of lumbermen and not steel ties will be the first big government export.

PRICES RECEDE IN MIDDAY TRADING

Steels Weak, Coppers Higher and a Few Specialties the Features

By W. H. ROSS.
Financial Editor.

Stocks were irregular in New York in the afternoon, there having been a recessional at midday. The reaction was not pronounced and prices eased off largely because of diminished demand. Bears continued to search for weak spots, but found little encouragement. There was a rm undertone throughout. Utilities and steels were additionally lower as a class, but Crucible held part of its gain. Coppers showed steadiness and an upward tendency when recessions were the rule. Sugars were a strong group. Atlantic Gulf was up three points at its best, selling at its 1919 highest during the session. Mids felt selling pressure, Erie common declining more than a point. The call rate on time collateral was 6 per cent. at noon, with loans on industrials at 4½.

AFTERNOON GAINS AND LOSSES.

Gains in the afternoon included Atlantic Gulf, 1⅜ at 123, after selling as high as 124½; Best Sugar, 2¼ at 78⅝; American Sugar, 1 at 126; Forged, 2¾ at 53; Consolidated Petroleum, ½ at 182½; Texas Co., 2¼ at 214½; Reading, ⅜ at 85¾; Utah Copper, 1⅜ at 76½; Anaconda, ⅜ at 62¾ and Chino, 1¼ at 37½.

Among declines were U. S. Steel, 1¼ at 98⅝; Bethlehem B, ⅜ at 68¾; Hide & Leather preferred, 1¼ at 99½; Erie, 1¼ at 16¼; St. Paul, ⅝ at 37¾, and Pierce preferred, 1⅜ at 112¾; Studebaker, ⅝ at 64¼, and Industrial Alcohol, ⅜ at 148½. Hide & Leather common was unchanged at 22¾, after selling at the record high price of 23½.

PRICES HIGHER AT NOON.

Prices ruled higher in New York at noon, after an active morning, with the market tone good after a bear raid at the opening. Steels failed to rally to say extent, although by midday they were above the forenoon's lowest level. The attitude of the railway administrator towards the steel price schedule gave bears a reason for a drive against this class of stocks. A number of specialties were especially strong, including Associated Dry Goods and National Conduit. Coppers were showing small gains, Chino having been the exception.

BOSTON ELEVATED'S LARGE GAIN.

Trading on the local exchange was of fair volume, but coppers were not unusually active. Neither were they subject to much manipulation in price. Trading in United Fruit and packing issues were of more consequence. The advance of Boston Elevated was the most interesting episode. It opened at 74 and sold later at 75¾, an advance of more than six points. It reported a large increase in March gross receipts and the Massachusetts Supreme Court has reported to the Legislature that it has no public control of the road is constitutional. Bills pending before the General Court provide for a Boston Elevated fare lower than service cost and for making up the deficiency by direct taxation.

Afternoon gains in Boston included Boston Elevated, 5⅛, at 74¾; West End, 2⅜, at 47; United Fruit, ½, at 173½; Copper Range, 1⅜, at 44½, and Old Dominion, ½, at 28½. Among declines were Isle Royle, 1, at 26; Swift, ¼, at 139¾, and Swift International, ½, at 60½.

STEELS OPENED AT DECLINES.

Weakness of steels was the feature in New York at the opening, selling pressure being largely because of the impression that the director of railways is dissatisfied with the prices for steel products agreed upon at the Washington conference. U. S. Steel opened as low as 98, a decline of 1¼. Bethlehem was off a point. The bear drive was not sustained, and prices rallied within a few minutes. Afterwards during the first hour the trend was upward. It was at times persistent advance. There were orders to buy from many sections of the country, and heaviness seemed to be confined principally to the professional element. They are short of stocks on unusual extent and working hard for a pronounced reaction.

COPPERS ALSO RECEDED.

Coppers were also lower at the outset. But they recovered with steels. They are said to be discounting the future, the leaders being from one to more than ten points above the low of the year, although so far in 1919 the metal trade has been as stagnant as at any time within recollection. Shipping and oil issues were strong at the start, the latter group making a new high for the year soon after trading began. A number of specialties were advanced to record, Mfd Oil and common selling at its record highest. Barrett & Co. quickly advanced more than four points. Kelly-Springfield showed more than two points gain. Hide & Leather, usually sluggish, Lackawanna Steel and Southern Pacific the most active and strongest of the railroad issues, among motors.

Oil Well Developments

In the oil fields of this country in March, 1,237 oil wells were completed and rigs and drilling wells totalled 2,062. Production of crude oil increased only 529 barrels. These figures are from the Oil City Derrick's monthly report.

TOBACCO WAR WITH U. S. TALKED OF IN ENGLAND

London, April 2.—Does an Anglo-American tobacco war impend? This inquiry was raised today by the Manchester Guardian, which stated that an American tobacco magnate had just arrived in England to prepare for a "tobacco invasion of Europe." The leading tobacco firms here are unable to confirm reports of a "war," but admit that their agents are investigating the situation.

One prominent manufacturer said: "We know that a corporation was recently formed in the United States with $17,000,000 capital to enter foreign trade, but the Imperial Tobacco company (an English concern) had $100,000,000 and the Anglo-American company has $60,000,000, so you can see we have little to fear."

FRANCE REFUSED CREDIT FOR COPPER BUYING

New York, April 2.—According to a member of the Commission which toured Europe on behalf of the Copper Export Association, France was offered a $50,000,000 credit in this country by American bankers if she agreed to purchase copper. The French prohibition against metal imports prevented acceptance of this offer.

England, it is said, has about 100,000 tons of metal on hand, or something like 200,000,000 pounds. This is being offered for sale by the government.

Melrose Pupils Forced to Choose School or Secret Order

Notice has been served on parents of all Melrose High pupils that the latter must make their choice between attending that school or becoming members of secret societies.

Pupils who are members of secret societies will be barred from holding any school or class offices or from membership in the athletic teams.

Two new fraternities are said to have been started recently in spite of a rule of the school board passed a dozen years ago, forbidding undergraduates membership in such organizations. The rule will be rigidly enforced.

MALDEN WOMAN IS FIRST NAMED ON TRADE BOARD

Mrs. Mabel E. Swift of No. 5 Spring street, Malden, became an active member of the Malden Board of Trade at the meeting to-day as the first woman member of such an organization in Greater Boston.

Mrs. Swift is the wife of Henry H. Swift, attached to the Wakefield exchange of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company.

What Is Real Money?

Borrowed From Jones, It Is Real—Printed by the Government, It Is "Fiat"

Copyright, 1919, Star Company

The government of Jamaica, down near the canal, needs money. So does everybody else. Jamaica has decided to PRINT the money. It starts off with $750,000 in paper.

This is called "wildcat" finance. Here, when the government wants money, it asks the people to please buy bonds. The people buy the bonds, rake and scrape, as they should do, being patriotic.

Bonds are printed and are handed to the people in return for their money. Then the banks that get the bonds may take those bonds to the Federal Reserve Bank and the Reserve Bank will print money for them—just as they are printing money in Jamaica, and lend the printed money to the banks, taking government bonds as security for government paper money.

We are paying our bills with the printed money of the Federal Reserve, it is perfectly good money. There is a great deal more such money, of course, than there is gold in the United States; that doesn't make any difference. Uncle Sam's credit is good and would be good, if he did not have five dollars worth of gold in the world.

The statesmen, political economists and students of finance will give you a thousand reasons why it would never do for the government to print the money that it needs, and issue it, explaining that it is a first mortgage on the United States of America, just as bonds are, and use it for money at par in payment of all debts, public and private, WITHOUT the payment of any interest by the government.

If you should suggest that you would be told first of all that it was "fiat money," and "fiat money" is something very terrible. The Federal Reserve Banks will take the note of a merchant, with one or two names on the back of it, and issue money on THAT, and that is PERFECTLY GOOD MONEY. The ordinary little man does not understand why the note of the Government of the United States, with Uncle Sam's name on the back of it, wouldn't be perfectly good money also, without going through the form of borrowing it from Smith, Jones, Robinson, and printing the money later. If the government's promise to pay is good in one form, why not in another?

There is no doubt that the government could dispose very well and without depreciation of six or seven billion dollars worth of VICTORY MONEY, printed with the statement that the Government of the United States stands back of it, that it will be accepted by all the citizens for debts.

No such money will be issued, financiers need not worry, but it does no harm for the little people to speculate about it, and wonder why it is that the government, which owns the entire United States, must borrow the money that it needs from the little individuals living in the United States, and worth not a nickel except as the government protects them in possession of what they THINK they own.

Modern "Roman Triumph"

Much of the Color Gone, but Still Interesting

Copyright, 1919, Star Company

Four German submarines are on their way to the United States. They are not coming as the captain of the Deutschland did—to startle us with German efficiency. They are not coming to take back gold, or to blow up ships along the coast.

They are coming, convoyed by United States warships. Given up by Germany, turned over to the United States, they are brought here and will appear in the harbor of New York and in the Hudson River as a sort of triumphal procession, convincing evidence that the war is over, AND WON.

The little boats that travel below, and kill unseen, will be shown on the surface, with conning towers and torpedo tubes visible. They may be sent to other cities to be seen.

And this is a feeble, rather colorless reminder of what in ancient Roman days would have been a great "military triumph."

If this war had been fought two thousand years ago you would have seen a triumphal march up Broadway, such as Rome saw when Caesar came back from Gaul, bringing with him Vercingetorix, the courageous French chieftain. You would have seen Pershing, or perhaps Woodrow Wilson, if the latter decided to keep the triumph for himself, driving up in a war chariot, with a little short skirt hanging down from his waist, his legs bare, gold sandals on his feet, his chest uncovered to show the wounds. He would wear a crown of laurel, his horses would prance, and he would look the stern, pale, war-worn hero.

Behind him, fastened to his war chariot, would come the Kaiser and the Crown Prince in chains, dragged along the streets. Farther on would come wagons loaded with spoils, gold, precious stones, pictures, statues, anything that could be picked up and carried away.

After the procession, the hero would have great fetes in his honor, men killed in the arena, perhaps a real naval battle with ships sunk and many killed. There would be free distribution of bread and wine to the mob, etc., etc.

Luckily the world progresses, slowly nations go to war, still kill.

But our military triumph shows little iron boats dragged across the ocean to prove "Who's Who." Even if we had actually caught the Kaiser and his son, every American would think it ridiculous to drag them up Broadway with chains hanging from them.

We haven't got rid of international killing, but we HAVE got rid of some international foolishness, for which the Lord be praised. The policeman, not Caesar, drags the criminal to jail. LAW is emperor. LAW triumphs, and that is modern progress.

KINGS ARE "OFF"

They were "saving darkness" in a friendly game of poker in one of the back areas just off the Commonwealth avenue trenches in the Brighton sector. The joker was "running wild." The hero of this tragedy held four kings and a jack. He hurled the jack into the discard and came up with the joker. This made him good for five kings. He looked so unnaturally innocent that the others dropped out and our hero won a twenty-cent pot. The kings rated him four cents apiece. Nor was he consoled by the remark: "Well, that's more than kings are worth in the open market today, anyhow."

WE HAD "INSIDE INFO"

Lieutenant-Colonel L. Vernon Briggs, U. S. A. Medical Corps, who has returned from overseas to his home at No. 64 Beacon street, says the Germans know who whipped them. We know that, too, and we knew who would lick 'em long before they woke up to it.

SAFETY FIRST

Two men talking in Cambridge tunnel train. One says:

"Went in a wholesale place today and ordered twelve bottles of gin and half a dozen vermouth. Want to give Jim at least one good party when he gets back. Say, while I was there I heard a chap place an order for twenty-four cases—cases, mind you—of gin and twelve cases of vermouth. He started out. At the door he turned and called back to the clerk: 'Oh, about those seven barrels of whiskey—send four of them up to Groton and three to the North Shore.' And I thought I was ordering pretty large myself."

WHEN YOU GET AN IDEA PUT IT IN PRACTICE

You have a plan for making some extra money, but you constantly put off the time for starting the work, because it would require extra effort on your part, and you are having too good a time at present, though you need the money.

The longer you wait the harder for you to begin.

You were far more enthusiastic about the work when the idea first came than you are today.

Now your ardor is dampened.

If you ever get to the point of starting it will surely be in a half-hearted manner and that means failure, unless a new incentive grips you.

There must be enthusiasm back of any success.

Enthusiasm is propelling.

Enthusiasm not only propels the enthusiast but all with whom he comes in contact.

You can't communicate to others what you do not possess yourself; remember that.

The one who sits and waits loses propelling energy, and it will be harder and harder as time goes on to get the necessary spring into his work.

Across Atlantic in 24 Hours!

Neck and Neck, "Big Three" Rush Plans—Shall U. S. Be First to Cross?

FOUR hundred years ago Columbus, with three diminutive Spanish caravels, braving the terrors of the uncharted seas, first sailed across the Atlantic. The ships were bulky and awkward of build, the winds were variable; it took thirty-seven days to complete the trip that ended in—America.

Three centuries later, on May 22, 1819, the little wooden steamship Savannah made the first epochal crossing by steam. And that took thirty days.

Even the fastest steamship of today requires five days for the crossing. Now, enter the aeroplane.

Across the ocean in twenty-four hours? That may be the next record established.

Already the United States Navy has selected the type of airboat which will essay the first non-stop flight attempted by the United States; already the four airboats of this type are at the air station at Rockaway Point, and mechanics are working in twenty-four-hour shifts to get them in readiness. Already the man who will pilot the aero expedition has been appointed; and he will be expected to complete the trip in twenty-four hours!

Meantime, Great Britain and France are rushing plans for a similar trip. Neck and neck the plans of the three nations are racing—and it may be a race to the finish by the planes of the "Big Three" next.

Full details of the plans of the three nations are given in a thrillingly interesting article in next Sunday's Advertiser and American.

And there is a feast of other good things, too. Howard Chandler Christy contributes another of his lovely color drawings of "American Ideals from President Wilson's Fourteen Points"—this is the fifth in the series, and idealizes "The Removal of Economic Barriers."

Two instructive scientific articles will be found of unusual interest: "You Can Taste Through Your Ears" (did you know that?), and "How Irregular Teeth Destroy Beauty."

Marjorie Rambeau, the successful and well-liked star, is acting in a real love drama now—her own "true" love story, she says. Her first marriage with Willard Mack, famous playwright, made a stage star of her; then she divorced her husband. Now she has married a young sailor lad, as unknown in the acting world as she was when she married Mack; and she is trying to make a star of him!

Fifty thousand dollars for a fence! And all over a dog. The neighbors didn't like the dog. The fence was a spite fence built on account of the dog. And the money is part of the millions of the late Hetty Green—which adds to the interest of the story.

And, of course, there are inimitable comics. And "Lucile's" latest word on style. And other good things, to use the hackneyed phrase, "too numerous to mention."

Merchant Marine

Editor Boston American:

I have noted the wonderful work done by your paper toward attaining a bonus for soldiers and sailors.

The men in our Merchant Marine have been completely overlooked. They have never received even a thank-you for the work they have done in this war. All the credit has been given to the navy.

Can you find a place in your columns to wake our people up to the fact that all our transports held Merchant Marines in their crews, especially those loaded with T. N. T. These men deserve the $60 bonus as well as the others.

With the enclosed few lines, I request that you find a place in your good paper to start some kind of a drive and wake the people up to true conditions.

A MERCHANT MARINE.

Canada More Generous.

Editor Boston American:

Enclosed you will find a slip from the Boston American asking that the soldiers and sailors and marines get six months' pay. I think six months' pay is very small for what they did in France and Germany. If Canada can give from $300 to $600 when discharged, why can't United States, the wealthiest and the greatest nation on the earth, give that amount? Hoping to see the six months' pay pass.

Ireland

Prelates of Various Parts of That Country Demand That Erin Be Made Free

In this symposium most of the Irish bishops deal with the attempt to deny Ireland her rights of nationhood, and some allude in strong terms to the hypocrisy, tyranny and Protestanism of the methods employed to keep her in subjection.

The views of Cardinal Logue, Bishop Fogarty of Killaloe, Bishop McKenna of Clogher, Archbishop Gilmartin of Tuam and Bishop O'Donnell of Raphoe have already been printed. Others will follow during the week.

(Copyright, 1919, by the International News Bureau, Inc., Boston, Mass.)

By Most Rev. Dr. McHugh

(Bishop of Derry.)

WE have seen great empires rent asunder, totter and fall, kings with their sceptres disappear as if they never had been, and free States arise on the ruins of the past where military despotism had hitherto held sway.

An autocratic tyranny that kept countless millions in bondage for centuries also disappeared, to be followed, unfortunately, not by liberty and freedom, but by a new tyranny, a regime of unrestricted license, pillage, plunder and murder.

Forgotten Shibboleth

And, strange contradiction, the very people who proclaimed to the world that the defence of small nations, the crushing of militarism, and the establishment of justice and right, were the governing motives that induced them to unsheathe the sword, these, we now see, act as if these words had never been spoken.

And for poor Ireland—it was hoped that she, too, would join in the general resurrection of nations that had been crushed in the dust, but how vain the hope.

Wherever we turn our eyes, instead of freedom and justice, we are confronted by a militarism of the most up-to-date Prussian type, that makes its baneful influence felt in periodic ukases, fettering the liberty of the subject, and in inhuman sentences inflicted on doings in themselves harmless, which have hitherto been favored and fostered by a free-loving people. In theory, consent of the governed is recognized as the only equitable basis on which just government can rest; but in practice, though this principle may apply to every other nation under the sun, black and white, Jew and Gentile, Ireland is to be barred from a gift that is proffered even to the uncivilized heathen. . . .

No sooner was war declared than thousands of Ireland's brave sons, forgetting the cruel treatment of the past, and believing they were setting out to do battle for justice, liberty and truth, freely volunteered their services.

Heroic Deeds Forgotten

And now the war is over, and victory rests on the banner of the allies, the heroic deeds of Ireland's sons are forgotten, and nothing but calumny and oppression heaped on the motherland that bore them.

What a return for noble services freely rendered!

What a fulfillment of hopes that we were led to believe would find their realization in victory!

But, dark as is the cloud that hangs over Ireland today, it is not without a silver lining. The materialistic spirit that has held Europe in its grip for the past four years and more has only served to develop and bring out in greater relief the religious side of the Irish character. . . .

Never can we forget those trying days when, not content with the free gift of so many lives sacrificed on her behalf, Great Britain would treat Ireland as a nation of slaves, and force conscription on her sons against their will.

The Day of Delivery

In Ireland everything has not been as it should be during the past year. Crimes have been committed, which no reason could excuse and no circumstances justify. The moral law admits of no exception, not even in defence of the most glorious cause.

I fail, however, to see why the country should be branded as a nation of outlaws—calumnies, not to say worse, nor Irish, recklessly hurled by some of our own sons against the motherland.

Let us hope that Ireland's long night is past, and that the inevitable day of her delivery is at hand, and that the blessing of God and His Virgin Mother may rest on the Ireland of the future.

History's Ups and Downs Spiting the Enemy Young Women Boxing

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1919.

Reading late news, before you went to bed last night, you felt like asking somebody to call you in case the world turned upside down before you woke. You read of a revolt in Petrograd. How many revolts does that make? You read of riots in many German cities, mobs and arson, bad conditions everywhere.

You read that the votes of women helped Chicago to go "wet" by a vote of two to one. And everybody took it for granted that votes for women would mean surely "Votes for Prohibition." The whiskey men spent money fighting woman suffrage with that idea in mind.

Perhaps the Chicago women read about the women of New Zealand, who first voted the saloons shut, then voted them open.

They have violent riots and two strikes in the city of Stuttgart, where in old days the aged king walked in the Anlagen, where American boys and girls went to study music and all was peace.

The first strike was old-fashioned. All the workmen stopped to punish the bourgeoisie, that is to say, storekeepers and all business people.

Strike number two is by that same bourgeoisie against the workers. The bourgeoisie storekeepers and business men have closed the shops, stopped selling food, shut down railroads, telephone, telegraph, gas works, electric light plants.

This new kind of strike is interesting and democratic, to put it mildly. Mr. Bourgeois, the worm, has turned.

Bavarian members of "Christian Textile Workers' Association" are compelled to join the "Social-Democratic Textile Union" or lose their jobs. The Christian Textile Workers complain justly.

Thus, history has its up and downs. There was a time, not so long ago, when a man had to join the Christian religion. If he refused they put him on a pile of wood and set fire to it. The kind of coercion that burned a man calling himself a Jew, unless he changed and called himself a Christian, was bad. The new kind that compels a man who calls himself a Christian worker to change and call himself a Social-Democrat is also bad.

The Senate of California is all torn up about the German language. Senator Scott says that no man able to speak German should be allowed to teach in the University of California.

Senator Nealon would forbid children of German parentage to learn German until after the fourth generation.

A bill was passed by 29 to 7 forbidding teaching German in the State and private schools of California.

Nothing is more beautiful than talking lofty patriotism, but—there is patriotism and there is common sense. California's wise law makers may be interested to know that the Allies are teaching their children German. While Italy was fighting Germany with bitterness, and good cause for hate, the Italian Ambassador in Washington was teaching his children German. Italians do not imagine that they can punish their enemies by depriving of knowledge their own children.

Before the Franco-Prussian war the French did not study foreign languages. French was enough. After the Franco-Prussian war, when there were ten all French boys studied German and English. The fact that they studied German did not keep them from winning the German war recently.

The Japanese, with methods and energy that interest California especially, are studying German.

In their opinion, a language that opens the mind to a literature of highest value, is a thing apart from international quarrels.

Goethe, most bitter hater of Hohenzollern Kaiserism, is one of the four great writers of the world. Homer, Dante and Shakespeare are the other three. To read Goethe in German opens a new door in the human brain. You would hurt Germany or help your children by closing the door of knowledge.

The Chicago Herald and Examiner publishes a photograph from the showing Y. M. C. A. girls staging a boxing bout for the Yanks on a Rhine excursion steamer.

The young women are shown with boxing gloves, standing on a table, and "slugging" each other facetiously while the soldiers laugh. Interesting photograph.

The original scene would have been more becoming to the cellar of a gin shop in Whitechapel, London. This photograph is recommended to those trying to promote here the "sport" of prize fighting, which educates criminals, gathers thieves, demoralizes youth and spreads disease.
